Turk Army In Charge

ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—A new Cabinet of military men and civilian specialists was formed Saturday night to reorganize Turkey's political life after 10 years of authoritarian rule by Adnan Menderes.

Lt. Gen. Cemal Gursel, the tough old soldier who led Friday's virtually bloodless military coup that ended Menderes' reign as premier within a matter of hours, announced the new Cabinet and headed it as president and premier. He also is defense minister.

Thousands in this capital poured into the streets to cheer the armed forces as national heroes, hoisting soldiers, sailors and airmen to their shoulders in tribute.

Gursel, who assured the nation Friday he had no intention of becoming a dictator, held a news conference in Menderes' old office. He said the military "Committee of National Unity," now running the country, hopes to present a new constitution by July. It is being drafted by a committee of intellectuals.

Two Houses, Court

The new constitution, Gursel added, will replace Turkey's Grand National Assembly with a parliament of two houses. There will also be a constitutional court, he said, and a clause to prevent exploitation of religion for political ends. He gave no additional details, tails.

He also announced Turkey will abide by the agreements worked out with Greece and Britain to create an independent republic of Cyprus. This follows the pattern of his already announced policy of continuing with Menderes' pro-Western foreign policies.

As for Menderes, Gursel said there is no cause for worry about his fate as long as no one tries to stage a new revolt.

Former Envoy To U.S.

The new foreign affairs minister is Selim Sarper, a suave, English-speaking professional diplomat who formerly was Turkey's ambassador to the United Nations. The Interior Ministry, which controls the police, will be headed by Brig. Gen. Muharrem Kizilogiou. The new justice minister is a jurist, Abdullah Gozubuyuk.

Two ministers of state were named. Both are legislators—Sefik Inan and Amil Altus. Little is known about other personalities in the Cabinet. Brig. Gen. Sitki Ulay becomes minister of Communications. The minister of education is Fehmi Yavuz, the minister of health, Nusret Karasu and the minister of labor, Cahit Talas. The last three are all university professors.

Began On April 28

Many demonstrators who turned out Saturday were youths and students who spearheaded the demonstrations against Menderes that began on April 28 and culminated in his overthrow.

They sang patriotic songs, and at least 5,000 gathered at the mausouleum of Kemal Ataturk, founder of the modern Turkish republic. They laid a wreath at the simple stone edifice which overlooks Ankara.

Strong Support

There was no doubt that the coup had support throughout the country.

Residents of the ancient city of Istanbul, more sophisticated than the new capital of Ankara, were less demonstrative but equally pleased. Turkish flags were draped from the windows there. Students returning to classes at the universities—closed by Menderes and reopened by the military—cheered whenever they saw a member of the armed forces.

Reports from rural centers in the Anatolian interior, Menderes' political stronghold, said the swift takeover was as effective there as in the big cities. There were no reports of resistance.

The death toll on the nation's highways climbed steadily Saturday as millions of pleasure-seekers took to the road for the year's first summertime holiday.

Although few of the accidents resulted in more than one fatality the early toll mounted at a rate sharply higher than during the 1958 Memorial holiday when a record of 371 deaths were counted.

As the three-day period passed the one-third mark traffic deaths were running more than 25 per cent higher than the 1958 rate.

Chicago Police Seize 120 Lbs. Of Marijuana

CHICAGO (AP)—Police bought 60 pounds of marijuana Friday night—then arrested Gilberto Salazar, 27, on charges of possession and sale of narcotics.

State's attorney's and narcotics detail police made the arrest in a Chicago garage after Salazar allegedly turned over 60 one-pound bags of the dope in exchange for $4,875 in currency of which the serial numbers were recorded.

In the garage, police said, were an additional 60 pounds of marijuana and a late-model car with a false floor. Authorities said the car was used to bring the contraband into the United States from Mexico.

Salazar's wife, Oneida, 20, and his brother-in-law, Robert Almaraz, 27, were arrested on charges of being loitering addicts. They will appear in Narcotics Court June 7.

Ship Runs Afoul Of Milwaukee Breakwater

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A Lake Michigan excursion steamer, bound for Muskegon, Mich., on a holiday cruise, slammed into the Milwaukee Harbor breakwater in thick fog Saturday. Fourteen persons were injured but none seriously.

Many of the 375 passengers and 90 crew members of the Milwaukee Clipper were knocked off their feet as the 361-foot vessel's bow rammed the concrete wall. Dishes were hurled to the floor and chairs were overturned but there was no panic.

A stout collision bulkhead prevented the ship from leaking but the impact wrinkled the Clipper's bow plating and shoved it stem back several inches. Frank Knoblauch, general manager of the Wisconsin & Michigan Steamship Co., which operates the ship, estimated the damage at $7,000. Repairs will take two days.

The Clipper hit the breakwater just south of the gap in the main harbor wall. A departing ship must make a moderate turn to the right, then a right angle turn to the left to clear the gap.

"Visibility was nil," said Capt. Robert Priefer, 39, of Muskegon, Mich., skipper of the Clipper. "I was right on top of the break wall. I never expected to see it at all, because I was backing before I thought I should have been there. I was just creeping along, using just enough power to keep the ship under control."

All of the injured persons requiring hospitalization were released after treatment.

Sergeants Step Along On Way To New York

They're sergeants Patrick Maloney and Merwyn Evans who set out from San Francisco 47 days ago to walk 3,062 miles to New York. They now have gone a little over two-thirds of the way.

As they neared Ottawa, in north central Illinois, they were clocked by a state policeman at 6 to 7 miles an hour.

People in towns along their route, told by motorists the sergeants are coming, turned out to watch them go by and crowd into roadside restaurants to watch them eat. In LaSalle-Peru, 16 miles west of Ottawa, the city staged an official welcome Saturday, with a squad car escort.

"It's these wonderful receptions that keep us going," said air force Sgt. Maloney.

"That and meat and potatoes, and plenty of 'em," agreed army Sgt. Evans.

The deeply tanned sergeants wear regulation British summer uniforms and walk at a brisk pace, arms swinging. Maloney, an Irishman, and Evans, from Wales, grin when the crowds shout encouragement to the "two Englishmen." People who want to ask questions have to trot alongside to hear the answers.

Evans praised U.S. truck drivers to one inquirer. "Your truck drivers are so courteous here. Back in England they all but trim your toe nails as you pass."

The sergeants are followed by a car and house trailer where they sleep and eat some of their meals. A third British sergeant, Roy Rogers, drives the car, cooks and scouts out the places for them to stop at night.

The cross-country walk, which is sponsored by an English firm which makes soles and heels used for military shoes, is no breeze, Evans said.

Maloney and Evans expect to walk out of Illinois into Indiana sometime Monday.

Plenty Of Water In Mississippi

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A combination of heavy rainfall and a heavy snow melt at upstream points has resulted in "open river" conditions on the Mississippi above St. Louis of record duration.

Col Charles B. Schweizer, St. Louis district engineer, said gates of the dams at Alton, Winfield and Clarksville have been taken entirely out of the water since last March.

Prospects are that the free flow conditions will remain in effect at Alton until June 7, at Winfield until June 30, and at Clarksville until June 17, Schweizer said.

The river along this stretch is flowing as rapidly as natural conditions will permit, he said, and the principal hope of relief from continued high water is a slackening of runoff from rainfall in the upper Mississippi valley.

Rhee Flees To Hawaii

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Former President Syngman Rhee and his wife Francesca slipped out of the country Sunday morning apparently bound for the United States.

They boarded a chartered civil air transport plane which left Seoul International Airport at 6:10 p.m. EST Saturday.

Rhee's first stopover is Honolulu, the acting president's office said, but claimed it had no knowledge of the Rhees' ultimate destination.

The 85-year-old Rhee, who resigned April 26 in the wake of a series of antigovernment demonstrations and violence in which several hundred persons were killed and injured, has been living in retirement in his home here.

The demonstrations, sparked by students, were in protest against alleged frauds in South Korea's general elections in March in which Rhee won a fourth term as president. He had guided the country since soon after its liberation in World War II.

U. S. Consul Thomas Mayfield said he issued U. S. entry visas to Rhee and his Austrian wife Saturday. A Foreign Ministry official brought the passports to the consulate and applied for the visas.

"I understand Rhee is going to stay in the United States for two to three months but I am not sure," said Mayfield. "They could stay up to 12 months and beyond that the Immigration Service has to decide."

Although denounced bitterly during the antigovernment demonstrations, Rhee has been living quietly and apparently without molestation since he resigned.

MORE CENSORSHIP

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — The Hungarian exile paper Magyar Hirado published here reports Communist censorship of mail has sharply increased and telephones are being tape recorded for reference in Hungary since the failure of the May 16 Paris summit conference.

RFB DIRECTOR DIES

BERLIN (AP)—Walter Geerdes, 58, director of Radio Free Berlin, died of a heart attack Saturday. He had been head of the station three years.

101st Airborne In Chute Drop At Camp McCoy

CAMP MCCOY, Wis. (AP)—The air blossomed with parachutes Saturday as a battle group of the Army's 101st Airborne Division from Fort Campbell, Ky., staged exercise "Wisconsin Eagle I" before 5,000 military and civilian observers.

Fifteen planes in formations of three each, emptied 237 paratroopers at an altitude of 1,250 feet.

Seventeen paratroopers landed in trees of a wooded area when the winds shifted. Three of the group suffered sprained ankles while a fourth received a fractured shoulder.

Pfc. Richard W. Michael, 21, of 4623 S. Rockwell, Chicago, remained at a hospital for treatment of his fractured shoulder.

The exercise was intended to test the paratroopers' capability "to move anywhere, anytime — and fight."

The operation was delayed four hours by winds and a low ceiling.

Egan Finds Owl In Office, Asks Investigation

AURORA, Ill. (AP)—A befuddled owl became the center of a new incident which brought cries of "Who? Who?" from Aurora's Mayor Paul Egan Saturday.

When the mayor entered his office, he found the owl regarding him from the back of a chair.

Egan summoned city hall employes from other offices to help him get rid of the bird, meanwhile, demanding, "Who put that bird in my office? Who?"

Somebody suggested that Roger Sutz, the city dog catcher, might be able to catch the owl. Stutz was summoned.

As Stutz arrived, the Owl walked quietly toward the door.

Stutz nabbed it with no trouble at all.

"I want this thing investigated," Egan said as Stutz departed with his prisoner. "It may be a spy in the sky. They could have slipped it in through the mail slot."

Many Homeless As Monsoon Hits Manila

MANILA (AP) — A monsoon which sneaked in behind tropical storm Lucille flooded the Manila area Saturday, taking scores of lives and making thousands homeless.

Police, army and Red Cross authorities listed 27 dead in Manila proper, 36 in neighboring Quezon City, 21 in nearby Caloocan Town and 12 in suburban San Juan for a total of 96, with counting at nightfall incomplete. Most of the victims drowned.

Swirling flood waters covered half of the sprawling metropolitan region and crippled this capital city of two million. Power and communication lines were downed in many districts and in some places houses were awash to the rooftops.

In Manila's crowded tenement districts, where most of the city's deaths occurred, water rose to six feet.

U.S. Should Be Taken Down Peg

MOSCOW (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev told the Soviet people Saturday the Americans need to be taken down a peg or two.

The Soviet Premier softened his tone, however, in blaming President Eisenhower and "American hotheads" for wrecking the Paris summit conference, and said he will be ready to talk at the summit again in six or eight months.

He indicated that next time the talks are to begin he wants to see Red China, India, Indonesia and perhaps other Asian nations at the table.

"With only four participants at the summit, we cannot solve all these problems," he said, referring to problems of the Far East as well as disarmament and Germany.

Khrushchev said in a nationwide radio-TV broadcast he believes Eisenhower wants peace, but American monopolists, militarists and the U.S. government's foreign policy have other aims.

"The road to hell is paved with good intentions and he (Eisenhower) will really get there," Khrushchev said.

Raps Ike's Golf

Sarcastically the Soviet leader commented:

"Everybody knows that the President of the United States has two duties: The first is to play golf and the second is to be President, and golf-playing is more important."

Khrushchev wrapped up Soviet views of the U2 spy case, collapse of the Paris summit conference and related issues in a report to the nation that—with one 20-minute break—lasted three hours.

His immediate audience was made up of 2,000 Communist labor brigade leaders, meeting in the Kremlin. These pace-setting shock workers, whom Khrushchev called pioneers of the future, acclaimed him as "the foremost shock worker of Communist labor."

Calm . . . . Mild

But point by point he covered every issue he had raised in speeches before, during and after the meeting in Paris except that he omitted hammering on the question of a peace treaty with Communist East Germany. There were these additions:

1. Development of the rocket that Khrushchev said downed U.S. pilot Francis G. Powers' high-flying Lockheed U2 has undermined the entire U.S. bomber strategy, placing all invading planes within reach of similar weapons.

2. Production of Soviet rockets—billed to take up the slack in a cut in the manpower of the armed forces—is being reduced: "We have already suspended the production of some types of rockets and put a brake on the production of others—for they are not cucumbers, they cannot be eaten, and only so many are necessary to repulse aggression."

Though he "has the impression" that Eisenhower wants peace, Khrushchev made it clear again that he does not want to negotiate with him.

He Dislikes Nixon

Without specifically saying so, he indicated he also had a thorough dislike for Vice President Richard M. Nixon. He particularly blamed Nixon for supporting Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and Undersecretary of State Douglas Dillon for what he called cold war speeches in advance of the summit meeting.

Khrushchev got a standing ovation and thunderous applause from the shock worker audience when he declared it was up to Eisenhower, not him, to have made the first gesture of conciliation in Paris.

"You Approve"

"I take it you approve of my positions," Khrushchev said.

The delegates — young workers helping to whip up production with the aim of overtaking the United States by 1965 — cheered louder than ever.

They laughed as the Premier spoke scornfully of such allies of the United States as Generalissimo Francisco Franco of Spain, Nationalist China's President Chiang Kai-shek and Premier Nobusuke Kishi of Japan.

Prime Minister Fidel Castro of Cuba drew praise as pursuing "a policy in the interest of the people."

Nixon To Woo Independent Voters In 1960 Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon is planning a campaign pitch at independent voters in the four largest states if he becomes the Republican presidential nominee.

Nixon's associates think they have a good chance of enlisting enough independents in New York, California, Pennsylvania and Illinois to swing their way an election the vice president himself predicts is going to be close.

The four states account for 136 electoral votes, more than half of the 269 needed to win the presidency.

Various polls have given Nixon's friends confidence that he can gather a large percentage of the independent vote he would need to be elected, since registered Democrats outnumber Republican party members.

Nixon's showings in the Illinois and Pennsylvania primaries have added to their conviction that he will run well in those states.

New York presents a question mark, as long as Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller remains available for a nomination draft. But Nixon was well pleased by his reception on a recent visit to that state.

The Nixon camp is prepared to absorb something of a shellacking in the June 7 primaries in his home state of California. Nixon's aides say it is impossible for him, with an unopposed delegate slate, to equal the vote that will be run up by a Democratic slate pledged to Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

In support of this, the Nixon people cite Democratic registrations of 3,676,495 against a Republican enrollment of 2,519,975. Californians no longer can cross party lines in a primary, as they were allowed to do in the past.

Assails Stratton For State Poor Relief Budget

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Otto Kerner, Democratic nominee for governor, said Saturday Gov. William G. Stratton played a game of "too little, too late" in calls for legislative appropriations for poor relief.

Kerner, addressing a group of editors, urged more intensive reporting of state government. Stratton, Republican candidate for re-election, was scheduled to speak to the same group later Saturday.

Kerner, in prepared remarks, said Stratton for the last two sessions of the Legislature" has failed to anticipate relief needs, as a result of which special sessions, combined with deficiency appropriations at the beginning of the regular sessions, have been the order of the day to plug the gaps created by inefficient budgeting.

"It would seem that either the governor is badly informed and does not know what is going on in the field of relief administration, or that he is calling special legislative sessions to conceal from the people the fact that his self-styled 'economy - in - government' campaign is wholly fictitious.

"Witness the recent session just past, in which temporary relief was obtained, and which relief, as you all know, is still inadequate to carry us through the current biennium."

Chile Quake Toll Mounts, Perhaps 5,000 Are Dead

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—Earthquakes battered this tortured country for the seventh consecutive day Saturday. Relief operations continued despite foul weather heralding the approach of winter.

The Taitao Peninsula, a wild area about 500 miles south of the main disaster centers of Valdivia and Puerto Montt, was hit by a quake. Valdivia itself, a city of 100,000 people almost half in ruins also was jolted by a tremor.

There were no reports of new damage.

Santiago was also shaken by a jolt during the night.

The death toll so far is reckoned at 3,000, but an accurate count may not be possible for weeks. Officials predicted it certainly would be higher, perhaps 5,000.

The ill and injured are beyond reckoning as of now. Two million in southern Chile are homeless and short of necessities. Damage is nearing a billion dollars.

Alabama Pastor Found Innocent Of Tax Fraud

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—An all-white jury late Saturday acquitted the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. on a charge of perjury growing out of his state income tax returns.

The verdict came after 3 hours and 45 minutes of deliberation, climaxing a four-day trial in State Circuit Court.

Special Circuit Judge James J. Carter had warned the crowded courtroom a few minutes earlier that no demonstration would be tolerated. He ordered spectators to empty the courtroom row by row and leave the building without congregating.

Prosecuting attorneys argued that the evidence proved that King wilfully reported his income at $9,150 in 1956 when it actually was $16,162.

King's lawyers countered that the prosecution proved nothing except that the integration leader deposited more money in banks that year than he reported as income.

They said King accounted for the $7,000 difference with the explanation that some of the money came from tax-exempt gifts, and the rest amounted to nothing but redeposits of funds previously withdrawn.

Ike Goes Shopping, Spends $7.13 At Country Store

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — President Eisenhower spent a happy hour Saturday making $7.13 worth of purchases — including dried corn, apple butter and a measuring cup — at an old fashioned country store.

Fascinated by the quaint store's 20,000 items of merchandise, the President went away with a variety of food supplies for use in his own cooking, a favorite hobby.

He turned the handle of an ancient coffee grinder and reported with a chuckle that he used to crank a similar one "by the hour" when, as a boy, he worked in a grocery store.

Eisenhower's unheralded visit so flustered one of the storekeepers, pretty Marion Harbaugh, that she unwittingly addressed the President and his companion at one point as "you boys." Eisenhower was accompanied by William E. Robinson of New York, board chairman of Coca Cola.

Mrs. Harbaugh, 36 and brunette, completely forgot in the excitement to charge Eisenhower an 11-cent sales tax on his nonfood purchases. And she momentarily overcharged him 33 cents before discovering one can of food on the counter didn't belong to the President.

But Mrs. Harbaugh isn't giving any of that a second thought.

"So Thrilled"

"We were so thrilled that he came," she said. "It was wonderful—just wonderful"

The country store, opened in 1909, is at Biglerville, Pa., a town of about 800 population 10 miles north of Eisenhower's farm at Gettysburg.

It still is owned and operated by Mrs. Harbaugh's father, 80-year-old Ner Thomas, who was on hand Saturday. So was Mrs. Harbaugh's older sister, Jean Thomas.

Robinson Was Broke

Eisenhower paid his bill in cash, but the wealthy Robinson found to his chagrin that he had no money with him to settle for his purchases totaling $14.64. They included a luncheon tablecloth and napkins for Mrs. Eisenhower.

The President offered to lend Robinson some cash, but he declined and accepted a blank check from Mrs. Harbaugh. Robinson scratched out the name of the Biglerville National Bank and wrote in that of his own, the New York City Manufacturers Trust Co.

Eisenhower and Robinson drove from the President's farm to the country store after rain had washed out their plans to play golf.

The President explained that Mrs. Eisenhower, who has visited the store, had suggested he would find it interesting.

Newsmen, who had been waiting to see whether Eisenhower would turn up at the golf course, did not accompany him to Biglerville. But the folks at the store gave reporters a full account of the visit.

"Just Fascinated"

"The President was just fascinated," Mrs. Harbaugh said. "He had said he had never seen anything like this store in his life."

Among the things he saw were an old wicker baby carriage with a white parasol overhead, corsets hanging from ceiling racks, embroidered ladies' hose, gay colored sun bonnets, candy, and hundreds of other items.

Family Feud Culminates In Death Of Stepfather

VINCENNES, Ind. (AP) — A pretty blonde told police her younger sister and brother helped her beat their stepfather to death early Saturday in the climax of a long family feud.

A bloody poker, grate shaker and butcher knife were found near the body of George Albert Williams, 40, a mirror factory worker, in the yard of his home five miles south of Vincennes.

Sheriff Hugh Williams said the stepchildren — Marjorie Donovan, 17; Ruth, 14, and Robert, 13 — signed statements admitting the fatal beating. They reported Williams had threatened to kill them in a night of drunken abuse.

The teen-agers were held without charge, but the sheriff said, "It'll go before the grand jury."

The stepchildren said Williams had been drinking since Thursday night and had taken them, along with his own four younger children, on a wild ride over country roads. The car ran into a ditch twice.

Marjorie said Ruth and Robert came to her rescue when Williams started to choke her.

Sheriff Williams said 40 gashes were found in Williams' head, and his eyelids were slit. Coroner George Gardner said he died from a skull fracture.

After covering Williams with a blanket and a towel, all seven children drove into Vincennes to buy ice cream cones. They finally went to an aunt to tell her they believed they had killed Williams. The aunt called the sheriff's office.

The children's mother, Margaret, 40, was at work in a Vincennes automobile spring factory during the struggle. She listened calmly as the teen-agers were questioned in the Knox County Jail.

Marjorie told the sheriff her stepfather had made improper advances toward her on previous drunken sprees.

Their graduation will mark the first time on record in the nearly 200-year-old Rutgers University that triplets will have graduated simultaneously.

Missouri Woman, Two Men Held For '$200 Slaying'

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Mrs. Gene O. Dix — whose maiden name was Angel—and 18-year-old William Mullaney were charged with murder in the slaying of her husband in warrants issued Saturday after another man said she paid him $200 for the slaying.

Mrs. Dix, 26-year-old mother of three children, was arrested late Saturday at a swimming pool five miles northeast of Eminence, Mo., in Texas County. She was arrested by State Highway Patrol troopers who were notified by St. Louis police that she was in the area. She denied any part in the slaying.

Mullaney was arrested in St. Louis and police said he admitted helping Mrs. Dix in a plot to kill her husband. Mrs. Dix had left her children at the home of her mother, Mrs. Ruby E. Angel, in St. Louis.

Warrants were issued against the pair after statements to police by David L. Thompson, 29-year-old shoe worker now in jail in Monmouth, Ill., his home. Thompson was charged with murder in a warrant issued Friday.

Detective Eugene O'Donnell said Thompson reported Mrs. Dix first told him she "wanted to get rid of her husband," then later said she wanted him killed. Thompson told police Mullaney furnished him with a pistol for the slaying but he didn't use it. After the killing, Thompson said Mullaney gave him $200 which Mrs. Dix allegedly had given Mullaney.

O'Donnell said Thompson insisted he was too drunk to recall the actual murder and "it is like a bad dream." Dix was stabbed to death.

Dix, 26, known by police as a gambler, had a police record dating back to age 12 and was free on $5,000 bond at the time of his death on a charge of larceny of auto tires from a Marine, Ill., service station.

Officers said Mrs. Dix was friendly with both Thompson and Mullaney.

Thompson was jailed on a minor charge in Monmouth, 187 miles north of St. Louis. He had gone there the day after the slaying.

AIR CONDITION

SAVE 15% - 30% OPERATING COSTS
IT'S THE NEW "TWIN SYSTEM"

YORK
WHOLE-HOUSE AIR CONDITIONER

WHY AIR CONDITION A HOME?

There are two principle reasons for air conditioning a home:
1. To create a more comfortable place in which to live.
2. In order that we may live in and breathe air, thereby living a healthier life.

WHAT ARE THE FUNCTIONS OF SUMMER AIR CONDITIONING?

There are four (4) functions of summer air conditioning:
1. To cool the air
2. To dehumidify the air
3. To circulate the air
4. To filter the air

The two principal and most important functions are to DEHUMIDIFY the air and to cool the air.

HUMIDITY AND TEMPERATURE CONTROL

The temperature in the home is controlled by means of a thermostat which automatically cuts the air conditioning system off and on, thereby positively maintaining the desired temperature — this is fairly simple to do, but a thermostat knows nothing of humidity. It does not respond to humidity in any way.

HUMIDITY CONTROL

The control of humidity in a home is far more difficult than the control of temperature — in fact, no real attempt is made to control humidity by any air conditioning manufacturer except ONE and that ONE is YORK.

Dehumidification of the air occurs only when the compressor is running — if the compressor does not run, nothing happens — neither cooling nor dehumidification takes place.

If a house is equipped with a central air conditioning system that has a single three or five H.P. compressor and the weather does not demand full capacity of the one compressor, the following condition often occurs:

In marginal weather, and particularly at night, assume that the thermostat is set at 78°, the windows are down and the doors are shut, the temperature in the house reaches 78°, then the compressor cuts off and will neither cool nor dehumidify. Quite a quantity of water has accumulated on the cooling coil which is re-evaporated into the home, thereby immediately increasing the humidity. The result is a hot, sticky, stifling sensation even though the temperature as indicated by the thermometer says you should be comfortable. The remedy is to set the thermostat lower, thereby causing the compressor to operate and to dehumidify, but this results in OVERCOOLING and too cold a house and often causes the cooling coil to freeze into a solid block of ice.

HUMIDITY CONTROL LONG A PROBLEM

Lack of humidity control has long been a problem in whole-house air conditioning and for this reason York has developed and is now producing the answer to this problem, which is the twin compressor system.

Instead of one 3-H.P. compressor the York unit consists of two 1½-H.P. compressors, or instead of one 6-H.P. compressor the York unit consists of two 3-H.P. compressors operated by a twin element thermostat, which will cause only one compressor to run if only one is needed. The result is an air conditioning system that will both control temperature and HUMIDITY, for on the cool, stuffy nights when the humidity is high, then one compressor will continue to operate almost constantly and thereby control the humidity. Along with this feature you also get the dehumidifying and cooling capacity to function properly when the weather is blistering hot, for when needed both compressors will then operate simultaneously. In marginal weather only one compressor runs, thereby cooling and dehumidifying — in very hot weather both compressors run.

SAVINGS AND OPERATING COST

It is quite obvious that it would cost less to operate one 1½-H.P. compressor than it would to operate one 3-H.P. compressor or it would cost less to operate one 3-H.P. compressor than it would to operate one 6-H.P. compressor, for in the case of the York Twin Compressor Unit, only one compressor runs if you only need one, and the second compressor runs when the weather is blistering hot — this results in a PROVEN 15% TO 30% LOWER ELECTRIC BILL.

The York Twin Compressor Whole-House Air Conditioner is your path to a more comfortable home, a better way to live, and at a more economical operating cost.

For over 75 years York has led the way in the field of mechanical cooling, and have been the pioneers in the development of all phases of air conditioning, both for the home and for industry. Therefor, look to York for the big improvements in air conditioning.

TV NEWS

by DON SHUMAKER

TV producers are always with their ears to the ground to find out just what programs TV audiences like best, trying to plan ahead of the "trends" and come up with a show that will "hit big" and stay there. Often, they guess expensively wrong. And to make it even harder on them, viewers in different parts of the country like different shows.

According to one set of ratings, people in Cincinnati and Houston like "Wagon Train" best. But in Chicago, "Wagon Train" isn't even among the first 10. There, the top show is "The Danny Thomas Show," which in turn doesn't make the top 10 in the other two cities. But Chicago and Houston agree on "The Bob Hope Show," both putting it in the No. 5 spot, while Cincinnati leaves it out of their 10 best. And Chicago and Cincinnati both list "77 Sunset Strip," and Housten leaves it out.

"Difference of opinion makes a horse race," and apparently a variety of TV tastes, too. But no matter which shows you like best, you can really enjoy them only if your set is operating properly. A dark or faded picture on your set can spoil the best of shows. To make sure you're getting the most from TV, call us and let our expert servicemen check your set. Do it soon. # Winchester Girl To Manage Showboat

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—Twenty-four year old Dorothy L. Beck, Winchester, Ill., graduate student of theater at Indiana University, has been selected for one of the University's toughest summer jobs —business manager of its recently acquired Ohio river touring showboat Majestic.

Miss Beck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Hanback, of R. R. 2, Winchester, graduate of Roodhouse high school and of Southern Illinois University, and former dramatics teacher in a Bloomington, Ill., high school, faces a busy three months aboard the showboat.

The Majestic, the last of the Ohio river showboats, will have a season with a performing cast from the Indiana speech and theater department, beginning June 8 at Madison, Ind., and ending Sept. 3 at Louisville. During the season the showboat will present 88 performances at 27 Ohio river towns in Indiana and Kentucky.

Prof. Lee Norvelle of the University's speech and theater department who will direct the summer showboat program has assigned to Miss Beck these duties: box office manager, record keeper, purchasing agent buying food for the touring company and supplies for the boat, company secretary, and housemother.

The Winchester girl, however, is an experienced trooper. At Southern Illinois University she had training in acting, directing, production, and other phases of stagecraft. She spent three summers in stock theaters, two with the Shepherd of the Hills company at Branson, Mo., and another with the New Salem Players of Petersburg, Ill. She also was for 12 weeks on the road with a touring educational theater. Her teaching experience at Bloomington was in 1958-59.

CHOOSE AND CHERISH

There is no other furniture style that we know of that has enjoyed such enduring popularity as our own Early American.

Perhaps this is due to our undying regard for the early colonists whose courage, ambition and faith brought them to the New World. It was they who hewed the nearby forests and patterned the humble beauty of their furnishings after the styles of their forbears. They were not content to just copy—they varied the originals—added new features and innovations and developed a distinctive new style. All of today's American Provincial furnishings are—in one way or another—descendants of this style.

It's a warm, friendly, simple style that imparts a feeling of hominess and shelter to any setting.

The bedroom shown in the above sketch has been furnished in Early American maple. The warm, rich wood tones become a part of the color scheme and show up importantly against the soft pinkish beige of walls and carpet. Wallpaper in a soft French blue used on one wall matches the blue of the bedspread and dust ruffle. The bed is an authentic reproduction of an early model. Large double dresser provides maximum drawer space.

Enjoy the warm, inviting feeling that authentic Early American furniture will impart to your home. Every piece in our collection has been carefully chosen to bring you authentic styling, high quality and unquestionably good value. Choose tht pieces you need now. Add more later.

Phyllis Parton, Gary Young Wed At Roodhouse

ROODHOUSE — Phyllis Parton and Gary Lee Young were united in marriage Sunday afternoon, May 15, at three o'clock. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Ralph Conyers at the Christian church before an altar decorated with palms and garden bouquets. Organist was Mrs. William Rees who played the traditional wedding selections.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Lola Parton and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Young of Alsey.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Cleo Bunting of East Alton, the bride chose a sheath gown of white cotton embroidered lace over taffeta with a small neckline. Her short veil of illusion was attached to a taffeta bow. She carried a nosegay bouquet of white and pink carnations.

Attending the couple were Janet Hembrough of Roodhouse and Ronnie Fox of Roodhouse. Miss Hembrough's dress was a blue in identical design to that of the bride's and she carried a blue and white carnation nosegay.

Ushers were brothers of the couple, David Parton of Roodhouse and Raymond Young of Jacksonville.

Mrs. Parton chose for her daughter's wedding, a light beige ensemble and white accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlor. Mrs. Flo Thompson of Wood River, aunt of the bride, assisted at the reception. Helping with the serving of the guests were Miss Dixie Alexander and Miss Brenda Thompson, cousin of the bride from Pekin. Miss Karen Young of Alsey, sister of the groom, registered the guests and Miss Carol Sheppard assisted with the gifts.

As I See It
by E. W. BROWN

Those of us who have been out of school for any length of time would be hard-pressed to answer some of the questions our children are being asked these days. "In my day," as they say, a bright kid, when asked the geographical center of the U. S., would have said, "Smith County, Kansas, Teacher." And when asked to name the highest point in the U. S. would have said, "Mt. Whitney, California, which is 14,495 feet above sea level." And now? He'd be told he's dead wrong and sent to sit in the corner. Pondosa, Oregon is now the center of the country. And the highest peak is Mt. McKinley, at 20,300 feet. You guessed it . . . our geography is moving around like a haystack in a twister because . . . Alaska and Hawaii are now states.

A scientist speaking at a meeting was asked how he and a partner collaborated. "It was a 50-50 proposition," he replied. "I thought up the problem . . . and he solved it." If you have a problem about transportation, let us solve it with one of our good clean A-1 guaranteed used cars. Our used cars are smooth-running, mechanically sound automobiles, thoroughly checked and reconditioned by our expert mechanics. For the best in quality used cars, see us. E. W. Brown, 406 South Main. # Creel Census To Reveal Use Of Fishing Areas

JERSEYVILLE—The Illinois Division of Fisheries is conducting a creel census during the current fishing season to obtain more information on the use of areas in this section of Illinois for sport fishing.

Future river access development programs are often undertaken as a result of information obtained from such creel studies, and cooperation of the angler with creel clerk is most helpful and appreciated, according to officials of the Department of Conservation.

Fishermen will be checked periodically at Watkin's boat dock and Shell Harbor one and a half miles west of Grafton on State Route Number 100; DeSherlia's boat dock at the south side of Pere Marquette Park, and Stump Lake area, nine miles northwest of Grafton. Launching ramps, baits, concession stands and boats for rent are available for the general public at these areas.

Creel census will also be taken at the Dixon and Plummer fishing area in Calhoun county where fishermen supplies are also available. The census will also be taken at the state owned area near Batchtown in Calhoun county.

Officers from the Department of Conservation report that excellent fishing is being had in the backwater lakes. Bluegill, crappie and bullheads are reported to be abundant in such area. Some also have large mouth bass, Channel catfish are the number one game fish in the flowing wares of the rivers of the locality.

GIANT NESTS

Megapodius reinwardt, a pheasant-like bird of Australia, builds a nest as big as a man's house using leaves, sticks and debris. It lays its eggs deep in the pile, which sometimes may be as much as 15 feet high and 50 feet in circumference, where they are incubated by the heat of fermenting vegetation.

STUDENTS SOUND OFF

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A teacher from Lee High School was excused from class so a group of visiting educators could question the teen-agers without embarrassment.

The youngsters let fly, saying their worst problem was a lack of books in the school library. They said they often had to go to the public library; then often the public library didn't have what they wanted; so they had to go to Jacksonville University; and finally, some said, they had to drive to the University of Florida at Gainesville, 70 miles from Jacksonville.

They said, too, that teachers limit them too much: "We're seniors; we should be able to think for ourselves."

Stock Exchange Slow--Prices Decline Some

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market this week posted its first decline in four weeks as trading simmered down.

It was a sharp contrast with the previous week when stocks made their biggest advance since last July as excitement rose over the collapse of the summit conference.

The news background this week was more prosaic. Although Wall Street believed defense spending must be increased in view of the tense international situation, traders had plenty of room in which to take profits on the space age issues and other "romance" stocks.

As steel production headed for one of the sharpest dips of the year, leaders of the industry gathered in New York and predicted an upturn in steel output some time this summer. Nevertheless, the general effect was negative for the time being as cutbacks were reported by some steel-using industries as well as by major steel producers.

Despite the generally uncertain atmosphere, some of the "glamor" stocks made amazing strides and kept large gains on the week although temporary losses were taken from time to time.

RECEIPTS SLOW, PRICES UNEVEN IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO (AP)—Prices in the butcher hog market this week were unevenly 25 cents a hundredweight higher to 25 lower with the decline on weights over 230 lbs.

The supply of 34,500 head was the smallest for any week this month and 1,500 less than last week. At the 12 major markets, offerings were the smallest in seven weeks.

Slaughter steers were steady to 50 cents lower after Monday's cattle run of 25,000 head which was the largest since December. Although offerings declined somewhat after Monday, the choice and better grades of steers failed to recover the early sharp setback. However, one load of high prime grade brought $33.50 a hundredweight on Wednesday, the highest price in a year.

Offerings of wooled and spring lambs for the week were too meager for a thorough price test but shorn offerings and ewes were steady. Shippers were good buyers early in the week but demand on their account slackened near the close.

REPORTS LOSS OF CAR ACCESSORIES

City Police received a report Saturday afternoon of the apparent theft of several small car articles. The report came from Cree Smith of 329 West Beecher Avenue, who told police two white floor mats, a flashlight and possibly other items were taken from his car at his home Friday night. The floor mats are white one torn near where it fits around the gas pedal.

Although picnics and outings are fun, too many may end up with food poisoning outbreaks, Dr. James W. Chapman, County Health Officer, warned Saturday.

"With a little knowledge and care, all possible outbreaks could be prevented," he said. "It's natural for us to live out of doors as much as possible in the summertime. But during the spring and summer months foods need careful handling and protection—especially if they are to be held for any length of time before being eaten on an outing. So, protect your food to protect yourselves."

To prevent food poisoning, he urged housewives and workers for church and lodge picnics to observe the following rules:

See that before preparation food is clean, wholesome, free from spoilage and safe for human consumption.

See that utensils in which food is prepared and served are clean and free of germs. Paper utensile are ideal for picnic use, since they are compact and light, assure each person individual germ-free utensils, and are readily disposable.

Unless the following foods are kept chilled until time of serving, don't serve them: Custard pies and pastries, meat and meat products, milk and milk products, poultry or salads.

If meats are to be served hot, don't cook them until just before they are to be eaten.

Keep fingers out of food and utensils.

Keep food protected against flies and persons coughing or sneezing over it.

"If these elementary principles of good food handling are followed," he said, "everyone will be able to eat, drink and enjoy the outing, safe in the knowledge that there will be no unpleasant aftermaths."

The Jacksonville Merchants will open Little Eight competition against Taylorville, the defending champs of the league, Sunday afternoon at Nichols Ball Park starting at 2:30 p.m. Manager Bob Winstead said the Merchants will begin their batting practice at 1:00 p.m. A number of the squad members haven't returned home from college as yet but Winstead was confident he could field a full team.

—O—

Harold Stark is the first local person claiming a hole-in-one this season. Stark was playing with Don Woodruff, Joe Doyle and Phil McCormick, the club pro, when he hit the ace on the 15th hole Friday. He used a three iron to cover the 160 yard feat. Harold wound up with a nine over par 79.

MacMurray will be represented in the NAIA National Golf and Tennis Tournament this year. Tom Farrell of Jacksonville finished 12th in the NAIA last year and has been selected to play in the meet again next month at Bemidji, Minnesota. S. K. Zimmerman of Pekin is the tennis representative. Zimmerman puts his singles status on the line at Kansas City in June.

—O—

MacMurray is beginning to stress track more and more now after a gradual buildup during the past three years. Coach Dan Unruh and the Highlanders are looking forward to the 1961 track season when they will have one of the finest and commodious track and field facilities in the midwest. The new plant, located on Routt street, has eight lanes for 440 yards and a 220 straightaway. The runways are composed of an asphalt especially prepared for track spikes. MacMurray hopes to stage a large annual invitational once the thinlies move to the new quarters. One thing for certain, the Highlanders have come a long way in the short time they've been with us and they'll go even further in the next couple of sports seasons.

—O—

The rains are keeping the farmers out of the field and it is also keeping the YMCA Baseball Committee in shackles as they've been attempting for the past month to get Nichols Ball Park ready for the opening games of the Pony-Colt Leagues Tuesday night.

—O—

Right now, it appears the park won't be ready because the lights aren't up and if the rains continue, they won't be up for a week or more. However, if good weather should prevail this next week, it may take only a single day if the City is able to spare a couple of men.

—O—

With the addition of some 25 new lights, the wattage should figure over 100,000 and this isn't bush league. This kind of lighting is found only in the AAA Class, brother. Fans going out to the games this summer will also see other improvements. Visiting and hometeams will have their own dugouts which have been a needed item for many years.

—O—

Of course the rotted south section of bleachers is gone and in its place will be a cyclone fence protecting the 90 odd feet of newly sown grass. A month ago the Jaycees were to hav painted the grandstand section but rain and holidays also delayed this portion of the face-lifting. Today, the Jaycees will attempt to paint again unless we get some more nuisance.

—O—

Fans and players will also appreciate the scorebord being moved in from left centerfield to occupy a portion of that ground taken up by the removed south bleachers. Charles Blesse and Pat McMatton are making up new scoreboard numbers and signs for the 12 teams. The only thing missing will be a scorecard but you'll be able to tell the players without it.

—O—

There are other things I could mention but space won't permit. One big improvement will be that every boy participating will be in uniform. If two games can't be played Tuesday evening, one of the games will be moved to another field with starting time at 6:15 p.m. also. This schedule will continue until the lights have been installed. As they say, al good things are worth waiting for. The 97 new uniforms are the best money can buy and they'll show up even better under the new lights (all in focus).

—O—

The 10th Annual Jacksonville Bowling Association Roll-Off will be held at the Bowling Center at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday night, May 31. Sanctioned by the ABC, ony teams finishing in first place in their leagues are eligible to compete. A kegler can bowl only once. Any substitutes must have bowled in the sam league as the team he is rolling for.

Jim Johnston, former Jacksonville man, has abdicated as Secretary of the Illinois Hall of Fame committee. Jim has been sports editor of the Rockford Register-Republic for a number of years and is turning over the sports department to Monte Helme. Johnston has received a promotion and is chucking sports. This is almost the same case as was Bob Merris' who was the Journal Courier sports editor in the early 50s. Bob left sports after the Decatur newspaper made him managing editor. Bet they never lose their love for sports though!!

Jim jumped 5' 3½" to win a blue ribbon for his James Hart Jr. Hi School. He also placed second in the low hurdles.

He is Vice President of the Student Council and served as Captain on the basketball team this past winter which won the league championship. Jim played center and will enroll as a Freshman in the Homewood-Flossmoor High School in September.

Cochran Stopped In Finals Of British Amateur

PORTRUSH, Northern Ireland (AP)—Joe Carr, a calm, long-driving Dublin haberdasher, broke the heart of 47-year-old Bob Cochran of St. Louis with par-shattering golf Saturday and won the British Amateur Championship for the third time in eight years.

The lanky Irishman clobbered his American rival 8 and 7 in the 36-hole final with one of the finest exhibitions of amateur golf seen in this ancient championship in many years.

His winning margin over the tight, 6,842-yard Royal Portrush course was the biggest since America's Lawson Little crushed Scotland's Jimmy Wallace 14 and 13 at Prestwick in 1934.

Carr, 38, and a Walker Cup player since 1946, became the first player to win the British Amateur more than twice since Harold Hilton of England marked up his fourth victory in 1913.

Carr had a morning round of 68, four under par, and went to lunch 6-up. By the 25th hole he was 10-up with 11 to play.

On the short 29th, the American was at the bottom of the green, some 60 feet from the pin while Carr's tee shot was 30 feet away.

"If I hole this one, Joe, will you putt?" Cochran asked. Then he rolled it up 2½ feet from the cup. Carr knocked the ball away and conceded the putt. Cochran then conceded a three-footer for a half that ended the match after Carr lagged up within easy distance.

Biggest upset in Preakness history happened in 1925 when G. A. Cochran's Coventry paid $45.60 for $2.

Tigers Shade Cleveland In 10 Innings, 4-3

DETROIT (AP) — Charlie Maxwell broke up a wild struggle Saturday with a leadoff home run in the 10th inning that gave the Detroit Tigers a 4-3 triumph over the Cleveland Indians.

The veteran outfielder, struggling to get his batting average above the .200 mark, socked one of Johnny Klippstein's pitches into the upper deck in right field.

The Tigers, winning their fifth in a row and their 11th of the past 15, should have wrapped it up for starter Jim Bunning in regulation time. Bunning allowed a two-run home run to ex-teammate Harvey Kuenn in the first inning — then didn't permit another runner as far as third base until the ninth.

Zimmer's 14th Inning Single Decides 4-3 Decision For Cubs

CHICAGO (AP) — Don Zimmer's single in the 14th inning with the bases loaded Saturday gave the Chicago Cubs a 4-3 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Zimmer's hit to right against his former teammates brought in Ed Bouchee with the clincher, ending the Dodgers' five-game winning streak and pinning Sandy Koufax with his fifth loss against one victory.

Lefty Koufax yielded only three hits, including a game-tying homer by Frank Thomas with two out in the ninth. He pitched into the 14th, when he walked Bouchee and Ernie Banks in succession.

At this point, Ed Roebuck came in and intentionally passed Thomas. The free ticket was set up when Bouche, breaking too far from second on Thomas' bunt attempt, raced for third and made it when the throw from second was slow. It was the third steal of his career.

Athletics Shade Chisox On Tuttle's Homer, 4-3

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Kansas City Athletcis came from behind on Bill Tuttle's two-run homer in the seventh inning Saturday and shaded the Chicago White Sox 4-3.

Tuttle, hitting an anemic .212 at game time, rifled one of Dick Donovan's pitches over the left field wall with Russ Snyder, who had batted for pitcher Bud Daley, on base. It was Tuttle's second homer and pinned the first defeat of the season on Donovan, who had won one game.

Marty Kutyna pitched the eighth inning and protected the slim lead but he got into a jam in the ninth after two were out and Leo Kiely was called from the bullpen.

Daley, who got credit for the victory, held the Sox to eight hits in his seven innings. Al Smith hit a solo home run off him in the fifth inning after the Sox had notched a pair in the fourth.

Leader Cards 67 For 3-Stroke Advantage Heading Into Finals

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Red-hot Jerry Barber continued as the pacesetter for the third straight round, shooting a 67 for a 54-hole aggregate of 199 and a three-stroke lead in the $50,000 Invitational 500 Festival Open Saturday.

Tied for second at 202 were Doug Ford and Doug Sanders after rounds of 68 and 69, respectively.

Barber's total at the three-quarter mark in the quest for a $9,000 first prize was 14-under-par for the distance on the buffeted Speedway golf course.

It was the lowest PGA score for 54 holes this season, the previous high being 201 shared by Barber and Johnny Pott.

The renewed onslaught on par Saturday produced the course record 62 by National Open Champion Billy Casper, whose lame 73 Friday still left him seven strokes off the pace with 206.

Casper's 32-30 round broke the course record of 63 set by Barber in Thursday's opening round on the par 35-36—71 Speedway layout.

One of the victims as the field was trimmed to 60 for Sunday's final round was the year's leading money winner, Arnold Palmer, who had a 73 for a 214 total.

Tied at 204 were Jerry Pitt[illegible] and Chick Herbert while Gene Littler and Jack Burke were notched at 205.

20-1 Outsider Scores Close Win In Withers

NEW YORK (AP)—John William, a 20-1 outsider, scored a head victory Saturday over Count Amber in the $117,000 Withers Mile at Aqueduct and then withstood a foul claim before the result was posted as official.

In a major upset, the 21-20 favorite Francis S. finished third, a half length behind Count Amber, who went off at 15-1.

Jockey Larry Adams, astride Reginald N. Webster's Count Amber, claimed that John William, ridden by Hedley Woodhouse, interfered with him in the stretch with less than an eighth of a mile to travel. Woodhouse along the rail was whipping John William, owned by the Merrick Stable of New York, and the colt seemed to come out a bit and brush Adams' horse.

After viewing the movies, the stewards said that the patrol judge could see no logical interference and the result was allowed to stand.

John William, a son of Johns Joy-Velaine, by Polynesian, paid $42.20, $16.30 and $5.40. Count Amber returned $15.40 and $5.60 while Francis S., ridden by Eddie Arcaro, and owned by Louis Wolfson, paid $2.60. The time on a fast track was 1:35 2-5.

Central Michigan Breaks Eastern's Hold On IIAC

DEKALB, Ill. (AP) — Central Michigan broke Eastern Michigan's hold on the IIAC track title Saturday by piling up 59 points and finishing far ahead of second place Western Illinois.

Eastern Michigan, seeking its fourth straight championship and ninth in 11 years, fell to third with 37½ points and Eastern Michigan had 33 1/3 points.

Northern Illinois finished fourth with 33 points, Illinois Normal had 32, Eastern Illinois 17 and Southern Illinois 13 2/3.

Dave Myers of Central Michigan and Hayes Jones of Eastern Michigan were the individual standouts.

Myers won the 440, the 220 and anchored the mile relay team to victory in the record time of 3:17.7. He also broke his own conference mark by one-tenth of a second when he was timed in :48.1 in the 440.

Jones won the 100-yard dash, and 120 high hurdles and the 220 lows. His :14.2 in the highs and :22.7 also bettered records Jones had set before.

500 Mile Memorial Day Race Will Attract 200,000

Ward's Race Record Should Be Broken By Fast Qualifiers

By DALE BURGESS

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The 500-mile Memorial Day auto race, where pay ranges from $10,000 an hour to nothing and a broken neck, will draw a record-cracking field and possibly a crowd of 200,000 Monday.

Only a disastrous series of wrecks can prevent a new race record, set last year at 135.857 miles an hour by Rodger Ward of Indianapolis.

Ward, three-time runner-up Jim Rathmann of Miami and Eddie Sachs of Allentown, Pa., will be in the front row starters as a reward for best speeds on the first qualifying day May 14. Sachs won the inside or pole position.

The field, headed by brilliant rookie Jim Hurtubise, set a record average of 144.070 miles an hour in the 10-mile trials.

The qualifying record was broken three times — by Rathmann, 146.371; Sachs, 146.592, and finally by Hurtubise, Lennox, Calif., at an awesome 149.056.

Johnny Thomson of Boyertown, Pa., who led the first four laps last year, was this year's third-fastest qualifier at 146.443 but he ran after Sachs and Rathmann.

Other hot qualifiers included Jim Rathmann's brother Dick, Roselle, Ill.; Tony Bettenhausen, Tinley Park, Ill., veteran of 13 Memorial Day starts, and Troy Ruttman, Dearborn, Mich., the 1952 winner.

The first three cars in the line-up are products of A. J. Watson, Glendale, Calif., and Hurtubise's car was built from Watson patterns.

Every car in the race is powered by a four-cylinder, non-supercharged Offenhauser engine, a powerful and uncomplicated power plant that has won every 500 since 1946.

Hoak's Homer In 13th Paces 4-2 Redleg Win

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Third baseman Don Hoak's two-run homer in the 13th inning Saturday gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 4-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

The triumph enabled the second-place Pirates to stay within one game of the league-leading San Francisco Giants, who beat St. Louis 8-0.

Jim Umbricht, third Pirate pitcher, picked up his first victory of the season against two losses. He held the Phillies hitless over the final two innings.

Dick Farrell, who relieved Philadelphia starter Jim Owens in the ninth, was charged with the defeat, his first in three decisions.

Hoak's home run, his third of the year, came with Bill Mazeroski on second.

Musial To Ride Bench As Part Of Youth Movement

ST. LOUIS (AP)—General Manager Bing Devine said Saturday night that veteran star Stan Musial has been benched as part of the St. Louis Cardinals youth movement.

Devine said Manager Solly Hemus has decided to go with Bill White in place of Musial at first base and Curt Flood in center field, where White has been playing.

This change is permanent only as long as it produces," Devine said. "Who can predict that will be permanent."

Many believe the decision was made to leave the way open for the 39-year-old all-time great to announce his retirement from baseball. But Musial himself apparently is giving no thought to an immediate retirement. Stan told The Associated Press:

"We haven't been winning and they want to try that new lineup for a while. Anything they want to do is okay with me. Now we'll see what happens. But I think I'll be back in the lineup soon."

Devine said Hemus told Musial of his decision after Saturday's game with San Francisco and Stan "as always, took it like a pro."

The general manager said "We arrived at our own particular decision. The situation had been leading up to a point where we had to make a move.

"This change was prompted by the desireability and need of playing a set lineup over a longer stretch than Musial has been playing."

French Title To Darlene Hard

PARIS (AP)—Darlene Hard, America's second-ranked tennis player from Montebello, Calif., scored her greatest victory Saturday when she chopped down Mexico's Yola Ramirez 6-3, 6-4 in the women's final of the French International Championship.

The French championship is regarded as the equivalent of the world clay courts title. The 24-year-old California girl, whose nearest approach to a major title had been when she lost to Brazil's Maria Bueno in the final at Wimbledon last year, dominated the match from start to finish.

Miss Hard and Miss Bueno will team in the doubles final Sunday against Pat Ward Hales and Ann Haydon of Britain.

Nicola Pietrangeli of Italy won the men's singles title for the second straight year, turning back Luis Ayala of Chile 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3.

SWIMMING LESSON—Bob Sewell had to teach this beaver to paddle. (It's a mechanical one at Disneyland.)

Perdue, a sophomore from Huntington, W. Va., smacked a single and homer in the opener and came back with two singles and another circuit clout in the nightcap.

President Sets Aside June 13-19 For Little League

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. —President Dwight D. Eisenhower has set aside June 13-19 as National Little League Week.

By proclamation, the President has invited the nation to further the aims and objectives of Little League baseball.

"Little League baseball has contributed much to a wider interest in the game and encouraged our young people to direct their energies in healthful, competitive team sports . . . participation in this sport by boys, and their adult leaders, has helped to develop a feeling of fair play, community spirit and respect for the discipline of rules and decision."

By means of providing opportunities for training under qualified leadership for almost a million boys, Little League baseball has become a symbol of the highest concepts of democracy, citizenship and teamwork. It has gained recognition as one of the most important youth movements of our time.

National Little League Week will be culminated by the observance of Foundation Day. Each community has been invited to set aside one day during the week. Local leagues annually join forces in support of the Little League Foundation, a non-profit organization to insuring the future of the program. Ultimately, Foundation funds will be used to provide better facilities for training, more research and other aids necessary to meet growth demands.

All Little League games played on Foundation Day, must be regularly scheduled league contests.

Mantle Breaks Hitting Slump-- Yanks Win, 5-1

NEW YORK (AP)—Mickey Mantle ended a string of 20 hitless at-bats in dramatic fashion at Yankee Stadium Saturday night. He belted his fifth homer of the season to start a four-run uprising that led the Yankees to a 5-1 victory over Washington.

Mantle's homer, that came on a 0-2 count, broke up a scoreless pitching duel between Yankee right hander Jim Coates and Washington southpaw Jim Kaat. It led to Coates' fifth straight victory without defeat, although he was in trouble several times, and to Kaat's fourth setback against one triumph. Kaat was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the seventh and Jack Kralick replaced him on the mound.

The sixth inning explosion must have cheered Yankee Manager Casey Stengel who missed the game because of a virus attack. Coach Ralph Houk directed the team in Stengel's absence.

Gophers Crush Iowa In Twin-Bill With A No-Hitter In Nightcap

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota's swashbuckling Gophers wrapped up their third straight Big Ten conference baseball title Saturday by whipping a demoralized Iowa team 7-3 in the first game of a doubleheader, then blanking the Hawkeyes 8-0 on a no-hitter.

The Gophers thus became the first team in 40 years to win the crown three years in a row. Michigan did it last in 1918-19-20.

The twin victories, the Gophers 11th and 12th against two losses, also carried them into the NCAA District 4 competition, site of which will be decided at a meeting in Fort Wayne, Ind., Sunday. For the season Minnesota is 26-6, Iowa's conference mark is 3-8.

By winning the opener the Gophers mathematically eliminated Northwestern, which played a twin bill with Ohio State at Columbus, from title contention.

Minnesota's wrapup victory was all the more startling in that it was fashioned by three hurlers—starter Clyde Nelson, Bob Wasko and Jim Rantz. Nelson, who went three innings, was credited with the win.

Only one Iowa runner got beyond first base. He was first baseman Howard Kennedy, who advanced to third in the fifth inning on a walk and an error.

Dave Pflepsen led the Gopher bat power with three of Minnesota's nine hits. He got a single, double and a two-run homer in the sixth. Ron Causton and John Erickson both had two safeties.

The losing pitcher was Dick Clausen, who was knocked in the fifth when the Gophers scored the fourth, fifth and sixth runs.

The double-elimination District 4 tourney will have four teams competing, including Minnesota.

San Francisco Flexes Muscles In 8-0 Romp Over St. Louis Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Willie Mays drove in five runs with two homers and Bill O'Dell contributed shutout pitching Saturday as the league-leading San Francisco Giants defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 8-0.

Knocking out Ray Sadecki, St. Louis southpaw making his second major league start, the Giants pounded out 15 hits which included Willie Kirkland's eighth homer and Mays' fifth and sixth.

O'Dell, gaining his second National League victory in six decisions, did not walk a batter, fanned five and permitted only one runner to pass second base. Alex Grammas was thrown out by Kirkland as he tried to score from second in the eighth inning on Bill White's second hit.

Injunction Halts Worker's Strike Against Pennsy

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A federal judge today issued a preliminary injunction forbidding the Transport Workers Union from "encouraging, participating in, approving or continuing any strike, work stoppage or slowdown" against the Pennsylvania Railroad.

District Judge Francis L. Van Dusen issued the injunction to replace the temporary restraining order that expired this morning. He emphasized that the TWU, which avowedly represents 25,000 employes of America's largest railroad, could not call a strike on July 20 as threatened unless the injunction is modified.

Six Entered In Jersey Stakes Memorial Day

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Six standout 3-year-olds, including Bally Ache, Venetian Way and Tompion, were entered Saturday in the $100,000 added Jersey Derby at Garden State Park Memorial Day.

A crowd of better than 40,000 is expected for the 1⅛ mile holiday feature in which Bally Ache is favored to bolster his claim to 3-year-old champion of the year honors. The distance is perfectly suited for the front running son of Ballydam. He usually comes out of the gate on top and challenges the rest of the field to catch him.

Bally Ache, listed at 7-5 in the advance odds, drew post position No. 5, but with the small field and short distance the outside post probably won't hurt much. Second in the Kentucky Derby and winner of the Preakness, Bally Ache will be handled by his usual jockey, Bobby Ussery.

Sunny Blue Farm's Venetian Way and C. V. Whitney's Tompion are rated the top rivals for Bally Ache, purchased two weeks ago for $1,250,000 by a six-man syndicate headed by Joseph Arnold, Versailles, Ky. In previous meetings, Bally Ache holds a 5-2 edge over Venetian Way and a 3-1 margin on Tompion.

Graham To Lead College All-Stars Against Colts

CHICAGO (AP) — Otto Graham, head football coach and director of athletics at the Coast Guard Academy, again will lead the College All Stars against the Baltimore Colts in Soldier Field Aug. 12.

It will mark the third successive year that Graham will coach the All Stars against the National Football League champions in the midsummer football classic, sponsored by the Chicago Tribune.

The former Northwestern University and Cleveland Brown great led the Stars to a 35-19 victory over Detroit in 1958 but lost to the Baltimore Colts 29-0 last year.

Graham immediately named his staff which will consist of Pete Phos, Johnny Sauer, Dick Stanfel, Don Doll and Mike Scarry. All except for Scarry were on Graham's staff in 1959. Scarry replaces Lou Saban.

Graham and his coaches will meet in Chicago July 19 to complete training plans. The 45 seniors from colleges throughout the nation will report for practice July 21 at Northwestern University.

CHAMP EXPECTS TO FLATTEN FLOYD FASTER

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (AP)—Ingemar Johansson said Saturday he expected to knock out Floyd Patterson "faster than last year" in their June 20 heavyweight title rematch.

"I'm in better shape than this time last year," said the champion. "I expect to knock out Patterson even faster than last year. But if the fight goes the distance, I'm sure that my power and strength and boxing skill will give me the decision."

The champion planned to continue boxing through Monday, substituting Tuesday for Monday as his day off because of the crowds expected for the holiday weekend.

SOUTHERN GRABS TENNIS HONORS

DEKALB, Ill. (AP)—Southern Illinois captured its third straight Interstate Intercollegiate Athletic Conference tennis championship Saturday, shading Eastern Illinois by one point.

Southern scored 17 points to 16 for Eastern which won the No. 1 singles and doubles titles.

Dan Garver defeated Roy Sprengelmeyer of Southern Illinois, 6-3, 1-6 and 7-5 for the singles championship and then teamed up with Charles Morrison to defeat Joe Cushing and Bob Walmsley of Illinois Normal, 6-1, 6-4, for the doubles title.

Illinois Normal finished third with 13 points. Northern Illinois and Central Michigan were tied with 6 each, Eastern Michigan had 3 points and Western Illinois 2.

★ GRAYSON'S SCOREBOARD ★

By HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEWTOWN, Conn.—(NEA)—Floyd Patterson lives in Spartan simplicity and trains with grim seriousness at the dead end of a country road in preparation for his attempt to regain the heavyweight championship from Ingemar Johansson at the Polo Grounds on June 20.

The former titleholder's training camp is located on a 65-acre one-time mink farm on the outskirts of bucolic Newtown (pop. 7,448). He eats, sleeps and boxes in a pink stucco palace of pseudo-Spanish architecture that a year ago was a night club called Lo Ronda.

Under the moon, with soft lights, gleaming linen and the music of Latin bandleader Enric Madriguera, who operated the club at a loss, La Ronda may have been attractive and gay. In the harsh glare of daylight, the rundown building is forbidding, even eerie, in appearance. To make the setting even more weird, Patterson's headquarters is flanked by two houses of gray stone that sem incomplete without a moat, drawbridge and portcullis. One is vacant, the other occupied by Maestro Madriguera. The rest of the 65 acres is wilderness in the Connecticut hill.

It is not an unlikely site for the kind of training Patterson is doing. This is not a carefree camp. There is little or no gaiety, none of the clowning and practical joking that enlivened the camps of Jack Dempsey, Jim Braddock and even Joe Louis. Everything and everybody is deadly serious, especially Patterson.

Floyd does not see his wife, who remains at their home on Long Island. He calls her every night and two or three times a week sends his younger brother, Raymond, to pick up special dishes she cooked for him. The rest of the time the cooking is done by the trainer, Dan Florio.

Patterson's mental attitude is just as grim as the camp. You know by the way he talks that for months his mind has dwelt on his defeat at the hands of Johansson last June. Any statement he makes regarding his ring future is qualified by "if I win back the title," not "when I win back the title."

• • •

Patterson seems more concerned with finding out what might be wrong with his own fighting than with learning what Johansson has that carried him to the title. Although he no longer underestimates Johansson—"I'll never make that mistake again"—Patterson seems unable to accept the possibility the Swashbuckling Swede won because he was the better man and not because Floyd made mistakes. This is evidenced by the fact that until a month before the return Patterson had not seen movies of a single Johansson bout. He didn't even look at the films of his own defeat by Johansson until almost the last minute.

"I don't particularly want to see myself knocked down seven times," was his explanation.

At the same time he was trying to round up films of all his own fights, so he could study his own style and see how it could be improved. He was stymied in this by Johansson, who seemed to have cornered the market.

"When my attorney tried to get the pictures," Patterson said, "he was told everywhere, 'We don't have them. Johansson was just here.'"

Patterson is profoundly religious and a young priest from Danbury, only nine miles away, is on hand almost every day to give him spiritual guidance. He is a person of deep emotions.

"When anybody does or says anything that stings him, Floyd hurts inside," a close associate told me. "He would be a lot better off if he exploded and got it off his chest."

• • •

It is obvious that his pride was hurt and he has been brooding over his defeat at the hands of Johansson. Can he throw off the memory of the imperious manner in which the Nonchalant Norseman batted him to ignominious defeat? Will that rankling memory sting him into a wild, desperate attack on the man who humiliated him? Or will it make him overly cautious. Those are questions no man can answer, not even Patterson, until the bell.

One thing is pretty certain, if we can believe Dan Florio, who has been a reliable handler of fighters for 40 years.

"Floyd will not be afraid," says the trainer, who is perhaps closer to Patterson at this time than any other person. "Being afraid and fighting don't go together—and fighting is Floyd's life.

"He isn't afraid of any living human being."

But, game guys get knocked out, too.

First In Mile Brings Villanova IC4A Title

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

VILLANOVA, Pa. (AP)— Villanova won the IC4A track and field championship Saturday by a half-point margin and a big assist from an unknown Manhattan relay runner.

The Wildcats finished with 38 points to 37½ for defending champion Penn State and the torrid battle raged right down to the mile relay, final race on the 18-event program.

The spirited struggle for the team championship overshadowed John Thomas' 23rd high jump over seven feet. The lithe Boston University sophomore cleared 7 feet, ½ inch, an inch and a quarter under his own world record, which he set only a week ago. The former meet record was 6-10, set by Phil Reavis of Villanova two years ago.

Here was the picture going into the final event of the meet:

Villanova was the favorite in the mile relay, so Penn State set its sights on a second, which would have meant the title.

With Villanova well in the lead, Manhattan anchor man Larry St. Clair took the baton with a lead of about two yards over Penn State's Don Davies in the battle for second.

In the stretch Davies seemed ready to overtake St. Clair. But the slim Manhattan runner let go with one final surge and Penn State had lost the meet.

Manhattan, one of the pre-meet favorites, finished third with 23 points followed by Penn with 21½ and Yale with 21.

The 1913 baseball opener in Cincinnati was postponed three times before it was played. Pittsburgh was the visiting team.

Fleet Nasrullah Wins Californian

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) —Fleet Nasrullah, one of the fastest horses in the nation at a sprint distance, stretched out with a blazing show of speed to win the $111,300 Californian at a mile and one-sixteenth at Hollywood Park Saturday.

A surprisingly reluctant horse to get to the post, the heavily favored 5-year-old Kentucky bay moved out of the gate like a shot and went on for a wire-to-wire win by two or more lengths.

The time was 1:40 3-5. It compared to the track and world record of 1:39 set by Swaps in June 1956.

Fleet Nasrullah, now probably the horse to beat in the $100,000 added Hollywood Gold Cup in July, paid $2.80, $2.80 and $2.20; Eddie Schmidt $8.80 and $4.20, and Bagdad $3.

The New Picnic Area

Tomorrow, on Memorial Day, picnic facilities at the Oak Grove area on the south shore of Lake Jacksonville will be officially presented to the city by the Jacksonville Rotary Club, whose civic minded members have invested $5,200.00 to provide tables, fireplaces and sanitary facilities.

The Rotary Club deserves the plaudits of the entire community for taking the lead role in developing this addition to our recreational areas. In fact, while it may be presumptuous on our part to suggest it, we think the name "Rotary Park" should be given serious consideration by the aldermanic committee appointed to give the grove an appropriate name.

We understand that the Lake Development Commission has plans under way to provide for the maintenance of this new picnic grove, though these have not yet been announced. The completion of these plans is certainly essential if the grove is to be the community asset intended by all who have had a hand in its development.

Unfortunately it is a sad fact that the great American public is often thoughtless in littering and despoiling otherwise beautiful public areas. Proper policing must be provided. All of this, of course, costs money and funds must be found to meet the costs. We believe that the source of these funds must be public taxes. Certainly our service clubs cannot be counted upon to finance our parks on an annual basis.

We believe that the sound development of park facilities around Lake Jacksonville calls for the establishment of a new park district, to encompass not only the City of Jacksonville but the Village of South Jacksonville and surrounding territory. If approved by the voters, the district would have the power to levy a tax of ten cents per hundred dollars of valuation.

It will require an educational campaign to secure approval of such a proposal, but we think the voters would approve if given the facts.

Our Pledge To Wars' Victims—

There are towns which have been built in valleys with large hills towering over them. On warm, sunny days such heights are made for contemplation.

As the solitary viewer traces the town and its geographic features, a feeling of great peace can descend.

From this distance, man's habitations and his works seem well-ordered.

The rectangles of the blocks of houses are like pigeon holes ready for the storage of life's meanings.

The rivers and the streets seem to fit the contours of the land and if they do not it would appear simple to make this slight rearrangement or that bit of altering to gain complete symmetry.

On these heights it is hard to reconcile the existence of wars. It is only when you are back in the narrower confines of the city's streets, marching with the masses of humanity, that wars become a reality again.

At times, history seems little but a recital of wars past. There are philosophers who argue, in fact, that war is as "normal" as peace.

Memorial Day, of course, is a day set aside in many of our states to bow a moment over the war dead of the past. It has grown to encompass all those who made the supreme sacrifice. Our national emblem flies over their graves and they are decorated with blooms. A rifle volley rips out and the lonely voice of a bugle sounds "Taps."

They are remembered, we tell the war dead. And again we renew our promise that they will not have died in vain and that we are doing our puny best to prevent others from sharing their fate.

We look about us and know that much of the world is in turmoil. Though we did not request it, world leadership is in our hands and what happens on Main Street can well affect the globe's millions. Leadership has its price and threatening events challenge us over each horizon.

In keeping our vow to those who made this country strong, we can find only one pivotal fact: we must endeavor to keep our nation's strength without faltering.

On that hilltop, war seemed remote, if not impossible. Down here, we are engulfed with the knowledge that the only hope for peace is strength and more strength, eternal vigilance and a nation with steely moral fiber. In this day when wars are almost too horrible to imagine, this is the only gateway open on the path toward peace forever.

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

Religion and Politics

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

This column is distinctively religious, but religion and politics are involved today in an intense way, much it is to be deplored.

Because the question of a Roman Catholic candidate for the U.S. presidency is one in which I once was deeply involved, it seems fitting that I discuss it in the hope of clarifying some aspects of the issue.

In 1928 when Al Smith was a candidate for the presidency I was editor of The Congregationalist, a prominent Protestant paper. Normally the paper was nonpolitical and certainly nonpartisan, though probably most of its constituents were of the Republican Party.

Though I was personally independent it was natural that I was accused of opposing Smith politically, but the chief accusation was that it was because of Protestant bigotry that I opposed a Roman Catholic.

The charge of bigotry fell rather flat considering the fact that for years before coming to the U.S. from Canada I had supported a Roman Catholic, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, for the highest office in the land.

The governor general, it should be remembered, is the appointed and official head of government, but the elected and responsible head is the prime minister. Political support of the latter corresponds to support of a U.S. presidential candidate.

Incidentally, two other Canadian prime ministers have been Roman Catholics, and I am not aware that any act or policy of either ever brought an accusation of undue influence.

My editorial opposition to Smith was solely on the wet or dry issue.

My paper had taken the prohibition position, and it could not rightly back down in the face of Smith's wet policy.

Actually I was not a strong Prohibitionist. I had always been an intense and active "dry." A daily newspaper once described me as "a dry, but not a fantical dry."

In the belief that the liquor traffic was and is a great menace to society, I took the dry side, and it was only on that ground that I opposed Smith.

Today, as a U.S. citizen, my vote is cast as freely and as unbiased as it was in Canada.

I cannot see that any other attitude is either soundly American or soundly Christian.

Nevertheless, the issue is not simple, and some who take a different position may be justified. Roman Catholicism represents a political state as well as a church.

If there were a Methodist, or a Presbyterian state, I think similar questions would arise about a Methodist or a Presbyterian candidate.

To this I think the answer is that many Roman Catholics, despite their allegiance to the church, are not totalitarian.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, for instance, took a strong ground in opposing Roman Catholic action in a matter affecting separate schools in Manitoba.

It was an ostensibly anti-Catholic Orangeman, Sir Mackenzie Bowell, who supported the Roman Catholic position.

Political principles in men of integrity will not be dominated by outward religious affiliation.

Eating Stance Keeps Tie Clean—Cheese, Anyone?
New Uses for Fallout Shelters—Birth of a Nickname

BY JERRY BENNETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Freeloaders had to learn a special stance in order to eat the foot-long hot dogs served at a Czechoslovakian embassy party. Reason is that Ambassador Miloslav Ruzek supplied plenty of mustard but no buns.

To keep the mustard dip from dripping on their clothes, guests had to remain hunched forward for as long as it took to gobble each 12-inch sausage.

John Bittner, who arranges receptions as the National Housing Center, says that crowds around the cheese trays are getting bigger at every party. He always serves both foreign and domestic brands.

Also more partygoers who prefer imported cheese are arying to satisfy their hunger by wangling invitations to the Swiss Embassy or Motion Picture Assn.

CIVIL DEFENSE DIRECTOR Leo A. Hoegh showed up at a National Housing Center party to plug fallout shelters. An elaborate, easy-to-build shelter had been set up for the occasion.

Pointing to the display, Hoegh declared:

"Protection from fallout is only one of its benefits. You can also use it as an office, game room and refuge FROM children."

RUM, ROMANISM and Rebellion Punch is the town's latest novelty drink. First served at a Women's National Press Club party, the brew is a mixture of Jamaica rum, loganberries, apple juice, club soda, ginger ale, white grape juice and grenadine. Its name is taken from Democratic campaign slogan of 1884 used against defeated candidate James G. Blaine.

CHASE CLARK CHURCH, 2-year-old son of the Idaho Democratic senator, can blame the Russians for benicknamed "Spud."

When the boy was born, Sen. Church cracked to a constituent that he might name him "Sput" after the Russian sputnik. The constituent thought he said "Spud," and exclaimed:

"Naming him for Idaho potatoes is the best idea I have ever heard."

The boy has been called "Spud" ever since.

A LADY constituent phoned Rep. Jim Wright (D-Tex.) when he was out of the office.

"My land!" the woman exclaimed. "Is he ill?"

MAN ABOUT TOWN Gordon Smith tells this one about his 7-year-old son Kristen:

Shortly before going to bed, Kristen heard a news commentator urge everyone to stand behind President Eisenhower during the summit crisis. The boy seemed deeply impressed.

Later when Gordon went to say goodnight, he found his son in the bathroom mixing a glass of mouth wash. Looking deadly serious, Kristen raised the glass in a toast and declared:

"To our President!"

Big-City Man Finds Peace In Small-Town Retirement

BY MARIE DAERR

Plan your own retirement well in advance.

Don't try to plan someone else's retirement.

Harrison H. Flick, who retired last June from a post as head of the older workers' department in a state employment service, has learned those two principles—by experience.

For nearly a year Flick has been leading a happy and extremely busy life in a town of 250 people. It is located 75 miles from the city—population one million—in which he had been living and working.

"Finances were the big reason for my move," said Flick, a widower with two daughters and four grandchildren.

"I knew I must live on my pension," he continued. "I knew I couldn't live in a big-city apartment on that. What's more, I knew I wouldn't be happy without a garden.

Nearly a year before he was due to retire, Flick began taking purposeful rides through the countryside.

"One autumn day, I stopped at a roadside park, in a pretty area, to smoke my pipe and take some pictures," Flick reported. "I asked a man working there whether he knew of any places for rent that would fit my budget.

"He suggested I subscribe to the paper published in the nearby town. I did, and found an advertisement for five upstairs rooms at $38 a month."

Flick's five-room apartment is heated by an oil burner. In the winter, Flick closes off two rooms. He cooks with electricity. Rent and utilities average $55 a month.

"The widow who owns the property is glad to have me plant a garden," Flick said. "Last year I canned corn, string and lima beans and made tomato juice, something I'd never before done.

"Summer evenings, I can sit on my little upstairs porch and enjoy a million-dollar view across farmlands."

Not that Flick has much time to sit. He has been elected to his church board and is teaching a Sunday school class.

He has insulated several rooms of his apartment. He has made storm windows and screens. Once a month, he drives to his former home city to see his family—or they come to visit him. Sometimes, he attends meetings of a vocational guidance group and chats with former colleagues.

"We're not all alike," Flick said. "This wouldn't suit another man, perhaps. But for me it's perfect."

"You know the best thing about this town? I can walk down the street—and nearly everyone says 'hello' to me."

A—No. You now have 12 quarters at the most. You need 28 more to be eligible for social security.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bewilderment, past and present. The American government didn't know what the Soviets were up to and doesn't know what they're up to now.

Pull the pieces together — before and after the summit disaster — and this is what it comes to:

The Eisenhower administration could only guess why Premier Nikita Khrushchev raised such a rumpus over the U2 American spy plane and it was shocked when he used that as a springboard to wreck the summit meeting.

One of the guesses was that Khrushchev was under pressure inside the Soviet Union. But there is, so far as this writer knows, not a shred of evidence to support such a theory.

Now Secretary of State Christian A. Herter is described as expecting "further spectacular action" by the Soviets but uncertain as to what direction it may take.

Behind closed doors Herter talked Thursday with the House Foreign Affairs Committee which was hardly being more than curious. Its chairman, Rep. Thomas E. Morgan (D-Pa), says it plans no formal investigation.

The formal investigation — into the plane incident and the summit crack-up — is being undertaken today by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee which, also behind closed doors, will question administration officials whose agencies had anything to do with the plane or the summit.

Morgan, after his house group had talked 2½ hours with Herter, issued a statement which he said Herter read and approved.

It said: "The secretary indicated that the behavior of the Soviet leaders since Paris may be interpreted either as a desire to avoid bringing on a war crisis or as psychological in order to pull the wool over our eyes prior to some threatening act. He anticipates further spectacular action by the Russians in the months to come."

But Morgan said Herter didn't think the Soviets would make a warlike or definitely hostile move. So it adds up to this: The Soviets have the Eisenhower administration guessing.

Morgan said his own impression from Herter's analysis was that Khrushchev had been under strong pressure at home before the downed U2 plane gave him a golden chance for anti-American propaganda.

It was hardly news when Herter indicated there would be no more summit conferences during the almost eight months President Eisenhower still has in office.

This is how he put it: "Summitry as a means of accomplishing anything in world affairs has taken a very hard knock."

The prospect of ending his term without another summit meeting probably doesn't displease the President.

He didn't like summit conferences in the first place — preferring the older method of meetings between foreign ministers — and was talked into the one Khrushchev wrecked in order to avoid a showdown on Berlin.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — TV without talk? It sounds heavenly.

And it's coming, too, at least an hour of it on the "77 Sunset Strip" show June 3. The man responsible for this boon is one of the sleuthing stars of the show, Roger Smith. Imagine an actor writing a script and giving himself no dialogue!

The segment is called "The Silent Caper," and it's just that. "The only performer with any lines is a police dog, the biggest one we could get," said Roger. "He's the great-grandson of the original Rin-Tin-Tin, and he barks like crazy."

The story concerns the menacing of a strip teaser by a villain whom Roger pursues until they have a fight to the death atop a water tower. It arose through a brainstorm of the show's producer, Howie Horwitz.

Roger said, "Last fall I wrote such a script and Howie and (Warners TV boss) Bill Orr liked it. They bought it, even though it would have cost several times what our usual show ran; it required 60 sets. It was shelved, and I thought they were just being nice to me by buying it.

"Then the writers strike came and they brought the script out again. They cut it down to 44 sets and we made it."

The multi-talented Arizonan — Roger also sings, plays guitar, will travel — is encouraged to write more scripts and will submit them when the strike's over. His previous training: Writing contests in school and a 300-page novel he wrote and later destroyed while looking for acting jobs.

This show could start a trend. Imagine Jack Paar speechless, Kathryn Murray limited to the dance, "Gunsmoke" to gunplay! It's too much to hope for.

Assures Marital Discord Nothing but Work Almost

Work. Work. Work. No vacations. No time for fun. And now the wife has become interested in a younger man who works for the same company that she does.

She admits she has a good husband but she also admits she is fed up with a life in which there is no time for pleasure. Their children are almost grown and she is beginning to wonder if she hasn't a right to some happiness herself.

Sure, she has. But she won't find any happiness in having an affair with the younger man or breaking up her marriage in order to marry him.

It's too late to make a new life for herself. But it isn't too late to take a good look at her marriage and her old life and see how both can be improved.

Why have she and her husband done nothing but work for years? Is it because they wanted so many things they forgot about the importance of enjoying life from day to day and year to year?

Is it because they have tried to give their children too much?

Or is it just because they have gotten so in the habit of working they have forgotten how to stop and enjoy themselves along the way?

The best thing a wife like this could do is to arrange for a vacation with her husband. Once they get away from their home and their jobs—if it is even for a few days—it will be easier to talk and plan for the future.

Try These Tangy Recipes For the Next Picnic Lunch

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Food and Markets Editor

Even the giraffes at the Brookfield Zoological Gardens near Chicago enjoy a basket lunch. And of course, nothing pleases the youngsters more than a combination treat of a visit to the zoo, plus a picnic.

A few loaves of enriched bread, moist sandwich fillings, sliced cheese and ham, fruit drinks and milk kept cold in vacuum bottles, fruit that won't crush, such as oranges, apples, bananas and pears, and a few bars of candy or a baker's cake will do the honors for both young and old.

Carry perishables (well chilled in advance) in plastic containers with tight lids or in plastic bags and, if possible, carry in a portable refrigerator.

Otherwise, place ice cubes in plastic bags and place other bags containing the perishables in the bags holding the ice.

By bus, by auto or even by foot, go to an interesting spot for the picnic. Certainly the zoo (provided it has hospitable lawns near the animals) is ideal for youngsters.

They will be fascinated to learn that at the Brookfield Zoo, the kangaroos, monkeys and camels eat balanced meals very much like their own. Each gets some cereal food, fruit and vegetable, milk and enriched bread.

Children enjoy "surprise" sandwiches on a picnic. They add excitement to the outing. Try these —we have found them popular with our young companions.

Celery-Tuna Sandwich Filling (Yield: 2/3 cup, or filling for 4 sandwiches)

Two-thirds cup drained, flaked tuna, 1/3 cup condensed cream of celery soup, 6 drops Tobasco.

Combine tuna, soup and Tobasco.

Frankfurter-Walnut Filling (Yield: ¼ cup, or filling for 3 sandwiches)

One-half cup finely chopped frankfurters, 2 tablespoons chopped walnuts, ½ tablespoon prepared mustard, 1 tablespoon mayonnaise or salad dressing, 1 tablespoon grated Parmesan cheese.

Six hard-cooked eggs, 6 tablespoons pineapple flavored cheese spread, 4 teaspoons pineapple juice, ½ teaspoon ground ginger, ¼ teaspoon salt.

Cut eggs in half lengthwise and gently remove yolks, leaving the whites whole. Mash egg yolks with a fork and blend in cheese spread, pineapple juice, ginger and salt. Fill egg whites with yolk mixture.

Marinated Fresh Tomatoes (Yield: 6 servings)

Three medium-sized fresh tomatoes, sliced; 6 green pepper rings, 2 green onions, sliced; 6 tablespoons vinegar, 2 teaspoons sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon finely crushed tarragon, ½ teaspoon celery seed.

Arrange tomato slices and pepper rings in a dish with a tight fitting cover. Sprinkle sliced onions over top. Combine salad oil, vinegar, sugar, salt, tarragon and celery seed. Pour over tomato slices. Cover tightly and refrigerate for at least one hour before serving.

Memorial Day Dinner: Grapefruit and avocado cup,, roast turkey, cornmeal stuffing, giblet gravy, whole cranberry sauce, whipped potatoes, topped with grated cheese and crumbs, succotash (corn and lima beans), enriched rolls, butter or margarine, celery and cucumber sticks, peppermint stick ice cream with chocolate sauce, coffee, tea, milk.

Shuman Outlines Plan To Bring Prosperity To U. S. Agriculture

Charles B. Shuman of Sullivan, Ill., president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, set forth a five plank "platform for a prosperous agriculture" when he addressed the Illinois Bankers association in Chicago last week.

He said it probably would have "little political appeal, but its adoption would have more effect on farm prosperity than all the political platforms and promises of the current campaign."

Shuman recommended a national agricultural policy that would provide for:

1. A gradual return to the market price system by using price supports to promote orderly marketing — not a means to fix farm prices.

Approximately 80 percent of our farm products are now sold on a relatively free market. The producers of those products which are government priced are generally in the worst situation. Livestock producers have always resisted the attempts to turn to government for price supports and quotas, and it now is apparent that their decision was wise.

2. A temporary extension and expansion of the conservation reserve — soil bank — to help those farmers who must make major adjustments.

Wheat is our number one problem. Under the government program, acreage has been expanded beyond any reasonable need. Adjusting price supports on wheat to the feed grain level with a simultaneous expansion in the soil bank acreage to 60,000,000 acres would help correct this area of over-expansion.

Greater Distribution

3. A concerted effort to expand markets for farm products at home and abroad.

This would call for coordinated action by farmers, government and the industries and businesses serving agriculture. The people of the United States are well fed, but they continue to accept fad diets which result in serious nutritional deficiencies. We need increased research and information on human nutrition and this means joint action by government and the agricultural industry.

There is a wonderful opportunity for expanded sales of farm products in foreign nations. The average income of the people of Western Europe, as well as many parts of Africa and Asia, is increasing rapidly.

The key to an expanded export market for our products is a relatively free world trade situation—only as foreign nations sell their goods are they able to buy our farm products. Farmers should aggressively oppose all efforts to increase trade barriers.

"Control Monopoly"

4. Control or elimination of monopoly price fixing powers and devices used by labor and industry.

If farmers are to produce and sell their products in a relatively free market they must be assured that other groups cannot use monopoly power to fix prices. At the same time, farmers recognize that the prices of agricultural products are often subject to excessive fluctuation. It is possible to organize the bargaining ability of farmers so as to make the market price system work more efficiently and avoid unjustified fluctuations.

5. Control of inflation.

The principal causes of inflation are government fiscal and monetary policies which result in constantly rising prices. The best way to check inflation is to reduce spending and balance the budget.

Farmers are particularly concerned since they are faced with increasing costs of operation and, at the same time, they must try to increase their capital accumulations to meet the demands of modern day agriculture.

"Inflation Can Be Licked"

Inflation can be licked, but not unless we are willing to reduce our demands upon the federal government for more and more subsidies and special projects for the benefit of individuals or for certain groups or areas.

"There is no justification for the government of the United States to own or store any farm products," Mr. Shuman said. "The place to carry a reserve against war or other emergency is in our productive soil, our livestock population and the normal channels of trade.

"Food for Peace" is a nice sounding phrase, he said, but the food products which have piled up in government storage warehouses would promote more strife than peace if dumped on the world markets.

"We have been extremely generous in donating surplus commodities to needy areas throughout the world and in subsidizing the sale of farm products to nations which were short of dollars," he said.

"However, the best way to relieve the world's hunger is to help those in need to increase their productivity and ability to earn an adequate diet. Education, technical training, capital, and the desire for a higher standard of living are the enemies of poverty and want.

Surpluses "Pile Up"

"Despite efforts to export government-owned commodities, the surpluses have continued to pile up. The surplus in itself is not the major agricultural problem—the trouble is due to the unwise government price-fixing program which creates the surplus.

"I do not agree with the often repeated statement that farmers would continue to produce unneeded surpluses with a market price system in effect. The present surplus is a product of the government pricing system. Production is stimulated by advance pricing (a guaranteed price before planting) as much as by high support prices.

"It is increasingly clear that the solution to the problems of the farmer can be found if government price fixing and production control are eliminated and farmers encouraged to make changes in their businesses to meet consumer demands rather than to satisfy political decisions.

"This platform for a prosperous agriculture will have little appeal to the major party platform committees, but its acceptance will have more effect upon farm prosperity than all of the political platforms and promises of the current campaign."

Illinois Farmers Outlook Letter

CORN SITUATION AND OUTLOOK

Prices of the 1959 corn crop have moved about as was expected. The rise from harvest to April was 10 to 15 cents a bushel. From October through March, prices averaged about 2 cents a bushel lower than the year before. But where the March to April rise was around 9 cents last year, it was only 5 cents this year.

SUPPLY AND DISAPPEARANCE. The supply of corn on farms April 1 of this year was estimated at 2,088 million bushels, 15 percent more than the year before. But farmers are rapidly using and selling their corn. Disappearance during the quarter ended April 1 was 1,006 million bushels, nearly 15 percent more than in the previous year.

PRICE SUPPORT. Farmers had 26 percent of thier corn under price support on April 1 this year compared with only 26 percent a year before. The general support level is $1.12 this year compared with $1.06 last year. The support rate for the 1960 crop will be not less than $1.06.

EXPORTS. Exports of corn from October 1 to May 6 totaled about 127 million bushels, about 4 percent more than a year before. Export shipments are being made with subsidies of only 1 to 2 cents a bushel. This means that our corn prices now are virtually on an international value basis.

CCC SALES. The Commodity Credit Corporation has reported sales of 51 million bushels from October 1 to May 6. This amount is 26 percent of their corn under the CCC in the same period a year before.

1960 ACREAGE. In March the government survey of farmers reported that they intended to plant 86 million acres, or about the same as in 1959. Some seed companies reported larger sales than in 1959, but some of the increase may reflect a stepping-up of purchase dates and intentions to plant more kernels per acre.

The late spring cut the seeding of spring grains in some areas, and some land farmers intended for spring grains may be planted to corn. On the other hand, farmers may plow up less hay and pasture than they would have if conditions had been more favorable.

COMPETING CROPS. Oats were seeded about two weeks later than usual, and cooler than average weather has retarded growth. Yields may be low.

Barley seeding in the heavy producing northern states (North Dakota, Minnesota and Montana) was also late.

Conditions seem to be favorable in the big sorghum grain areas of Texas, Kansas and Nebraska.

ILLINOIS. Our state seems to be in a favorable position in the corn market. In April our average price was $1.09 a bushel. This was 17 cents over Iowa, 25 cents over Minnesota and 12 cents over Nebraska. Part of these differences reflect lower quality corn this year in the other states. The Illinois average price was equal to that of Indiana and only 1 cent below Ohio.

In the southern and eastern states, to which we ship large amounts of corn, prices were about 20 cents a bushel over Illinois levels.

Price Of Land Zooms As Net Farm Income Nears Zero Mark

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Income is lagging down on the farm, but no would know it from the prices people pay for farm land.

Land prices have been moving upward, most of the time at a sprightly pace, since 1954. But returns from farming have provided no apparent support for much of the increase.

Agriculture Department economists call it a paradox.

Last year, for instance, farm values for the country as a whole increased 3 per cent. Yet the realized net farm income, the amount operators had left after paying production costs, was 15 per cent below 1958. Last year's values, at a record high level, were 71 per cent above the level of 1948—a year when farm income was 38 per cent higher.

"Most Unfavorable . . ."

Commenting on the situation, the Agriculture Department said recently the "persistence of these opposing trends has created the most unfavorable relationship between net farm income and the values of farm real estate in the last 20 years."

Land values have reached the point where the return on the land after all other costs are paid, has dropped below the mortgage rate of interest in four of the last five years. Last year the rate of return was estimated by the department at only 3 per cent. It is expected to be even lower this year.

Farm prices have reached a point where farm officials question the ability of most farmers to pay off mortgage debts, particularly when they represent a high percentage of the farm purchase price.

New Outside Factors

In much of the past, the price of farm land reflected incomes made from the land. That's not the case now because factors other than farm income and prices of farm products have become important in the land market. Many of these factors or influences come from outside of agriculture.

Very important has been the growing population and the need for more space for this population. This factor has been reflected in spreading of cities and urban areas into farm country sides. In recent years millions of acres of good farmland have been taken over and made into residential subdivisions.

Another factor has been the diversion of other millions of farm acres into highways, airports, and factory sites of industries moving to rural sites.

The high level of business activity and the slowly rising general price level have contributed. Many city folks, seeking a place to safeguard savings against inflation, have invested in farm land. Their entry into the farm real estate markets have helped to boost prices.

Back of this is a general feeling that land is a good thing to own, because the supply is limited and will become even more so as the population expands.

Lindarin Soybean Looks Very Good

The University of Illinois department of agronomy has released 3,600 bushels of the new Lindarin soybean for seed increase during 1960.

More than 100 Illinois seed growers will participate in the program to make seed of this new variety available to farmers by 1961.

Lindarin was produced from a cross of the Lincoln and Mandarin varieties. It was developed at Purdue University in cooperation with the U. S. Regional Soybean Laboratory at Urbana.

The new soybean is adapted for the northern two-thirds of the state. It is less susceptible to stem canker than other varieties and is resistant to frog-eye leaf spot and some races of downy mildew.

Yields will equal those of Harosoy, U. of I. agronomist W. O. Scott reports. But Lindarin will mature one to two days earlier. The lower pods will also form higher off the ground, tending to reduce combining losses. The soybean stands better than Harosoy and resists shattering in the field.

This Week.. at Dixon Springs

Hybrid grain sorghums appear to be good bets to compete with corn for the production of both grain and silage. Experiments at the Dixon Springs Experiment Station indicate that the hybrid grain sorghums perform better than corn in years of late planting as well as in years of wet and dry weather. It is only in years that are ideal for corn production that the corn may be expected to outyield the sorghums.

Three Good Ones

Three top yielders in both grain and silage have been RS610 (Texas 610), RS650 and DeKalb D50a. Of the three, DeKalb is the tallest by nearly a foot and has the longest head and the greatest distance from the base of the head to the top or flag leaf. DeKalb D50a has an open-type head, whereas the other two have compact heads. There is little or no difference in maturity dates of the three sorghums.

Sorghum Feeding Value

Grain sorghum is an excellent feed for all classes of livestock but should be cracked or ground. Sorghum grain is 2 to 3 per cent higher in protein bt somewhat lower in fat than is corn. In most rations, sorghum may be substituted pound for pound in place of corn.

Dixon Springs Feeding

In a lamb-feeding experiment in 1959, lambs self-fed a 50 per cent roughage - 50 per cent concentrate ration gained as well on the sorghum grain concentrate as on the corn concentrate. Average daily gains were .39 pound for sorghum and .39 pound for corn. For both rations about 10 pounds of the feed was required for a pound of gain. But the corn ration did produce more prime lambs —77 per cent as against 60 per cent for the sorghum rations.

Planting Rates and Culture

Plants spaced 3 inches apart in 40-inch rows produced higher yields than those spaced 6, 9 and 12 inches. Because sorghums germinate poorly, six to eight seeds should be planted per foot of row to get the desired stand. A planting rate of about seven pounds per acre for most large-seeded hybrids is about right.

Germination can be extremely poor if sorghum is planted in cold soils, so it should generally be seeded one to two weeks later than corn. Seed should be planted 1 to 1½ inches deep.

Cultivation and fertilization of sorghums are similar to those required for corn except that sorghums are not so responsive to nitrogen as is corn.

New Tests Available At Morgan Soil Lab

The Farm Bureau soil testing laboratory, now equipped with the most modern equipment, last week began making P-1 tests, which determine the amount of available phosphorus in the soil.

The laboratory, which is maintained by the Farm Bureau and supervised by the Extension service, has been brought up to date by the installation of new devices and by special training of the technician, Mrs. Rowena Enke.

The findings of the new equipment will furnish the basis for making better long-term and short-term recommendations as to application of lime, rock phosphate, potash and mixed fertilizers, says Farm Adviser George Trull.

Until last week the laboratory used a test for the total amount of phosphorus in the ground. This was a visual determination, where the color of the solution was compared with a color scale.

The new methods tell the total amount of phosphorus, plus what is immediately available for crop use. A photometer replaces the eye to render precise readings.

A revised schedule of charges for tests has been announced:

The test for lime will be 15c; for P-1, 25c; for P-2, 25c; for potash, 25c; all four, 75c per sample.

For lime, either one of the phosphorus tests, and potash, 60c per sample.

Plant Breeders Look To Atomic Energy For Aid

URBANA — Plants and animals haven't been the same since plant and animal breeders went to work on them.

They've stretched pigs, widened cattle, dwarfed corn and made oranges juicier than ever.

What they do is manipulate the evolutionary process, or rather they "control" it, to develop the plants and animals needed to feed and clothe a nation.

An up-and-coming helper in this business is atomic energy. By radiation, atomic energy mutates genes and chromosomes which are the carriers of heredity. This forces physical changes that rarely occur naturally.

Ordinarily, "non - atomic" breeding amounts to combining differences that occur naturally, so explains R. L. Bernard, plant breeder with the USDA soybean laboratory at the University of Illinois. There are countless naturally occurring variations in plants — disease resistance, yield, straw strength and so on. Bernard says that plant breeders of most crops will be occupied for a good many years to come in sorting through all this natural variability and testing the vast number of gene combinations.

Running Out Of "Naturals"?

However, plant breeders may be reaching a plateau in their efforts to increase performance of some crops. They may be close to finding the most desirable combinations of naturally occurring variations, Bernard explains.

While variations, occur naturally, the rate is too low to be of much use to plant breeders. There may be a handful of beneficial mutations every thousand generations or so.

To Make Mutations

Here's where mutations a la atomic energy come in. By manufacturing mutations, plant breeders can get around the evolutionary barrier. They call the work "irradiation breeding."

This work is still a long way from replacing conventional methods. Many thousands of detrimental genes are produced along with each helpful one. Isolating the desirable gene is very difficult.

But Bernard considers the irradiation technique a valuable tool in present-day basic research, and he thinks that, as conventional methods are gradually exhausted, it may hold the hope for future advances in breeding work.

ACROSS THE Fields AND Furrows

with ED GARLICH

BIG BUSINESS

Illinois led all states in the sale of corn and soybeans in 1959 and ranked second to Iowa in the sale of hogs according to figures released by the U.S.D.A. recently.

Iowa produced more corn but Illinois farmers sold more for cash—378 million dollars worth amounting to 19 per cent of their total income.

U. I. CIRCULARS ON AGRICULTURE NOW AVAILABLE

This spring the Illinois Extension Service has issued several new circulars dealing with aspects of agriculture and has revised and brought up to date earlier publications that have proved of value. These pamphlets are free for the asking at the Extension office in the Farm Bureau building and additional copies will be ordered, if necessary, by Farm Adviser George Trull.

No. 816, the popular Illinois Vegetable Garden Guide, has been completely revised. New also is No. 819, Strawberry Growing in Illinois, by Chester C. Zych and Dwight Powell.

N. G. P. Krauz, professor of agricultural law, University of Illinois, has prepared two circulars. No. 818, is a statement and review of "Farm Tenancy Laws in Illinois" and No. 747 deals with "Illinois Inheritance Laws, Wills and Joint Tenancy." Both treatisies have been written with the support of the Illinois Bar Association.

A North Central Regional publication titled, "Is Your Lease Fair?" is also available.

New publications of a specialized nature are:

"Plant Breeding As a Hobby."

"Handling Hog Manure As a Liquid."

"Artificial Drying of Sweet Corn Seed."

"Pest Control in Commercial Fruit Plantings."

There was a birthday party given on Saturday, May 7th, for Norine Ellen Day at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Day of R. R. 2, Winchester. Her sixth birthday was on Tuesday, May 10th.

There were eleven small guests present besides Norine. Several games were played. She received many nice gifts.

Refreshments of cake, ice cream and kool-ade were enjoyed by all.

Her grandparents are Mr. Elmer Day and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Clanton of Winchester and great-grandparents are Mrs. Ellen Woodall of Winchester and Mr. and Mrs. James Northcutt of Alsey.

All the Junior page readers and your editor wish every one of these marchers a VERY HAPPY BIRTHDAY!

YOUR BIRTHDAY

To march in the Birthday Parade just send your name, address, age and birthdate — with a snapshot if you have one — to the Jacksonville Junior Journal Courier two weeks before your birthday. Photos may be called for as soon as they have appeared in the paper.

If you have a party, write and tell us about that later.

LET'S GO BIRDING—

A Contest In Colors

By Emma Mae Leonhard

The cold May morning was suddenly made warm by the appearance of the Scarlet Tanager in the top of a large towering Elm near my garden. This bird of such vivid color seemed to eclipse everything else, even the Baltimore Oriole and the Rose - breasted Grosbeak, that were rolling their messages out to the whole neighborhood.

There it sat among the soft green new leaves, a bird of uniform intense flame scarlet, with shoulders, wings, and tail a uniform deep black. Near it sat a Red-headed Woodpecker, but its red head looked like a dull maroon in contrast with the tanager's scarlet coat.

There the Scarlet Tanager sat in its green frame, singing its Robin-like song. Yet we who were admiring this flaming bird soon detected in the song something different from the Robin's. It sounded lazier or drowsier and somewhat hoarser.

Actually from this bird of fire we might have anticipated a crackling, sizzling call, but the flame of the bird itself was sizzling enough. Its song has been likened to a hurdy-gurdy's; perhaps this is a good simile.

It doesn't take long for a person to be able to detect the Tanager's song, which seems to lack the punch in the Robin's song. Although hurried, the carol appears disinterested. The bird seems to say, "Listen for me and look high up in the oak. You will soon find me."

Is Color Safe?

How does nature dare to color point one of its creatures if it is interested in its safety? It rarely uses red without trying to conceal it. Our hummingbird has a sparkling ruby throat, but it flashes on and off, and is more often off than on.

The Cardinal Flower is the reddest of our wild flowers; but it is happy only off the beaten path, and its brilliancy is calmed by the surrounding dense green growth. The scarlet-cup mushroom is hidden under a log.

Even our beloved Cardinal, however brightly colored he is, doesn't seem to glow like the Scarlet Tanager. Perhaps its deliberate movement more on our level, as it flies to and from shrubs and the lower branches of trees, quiets the redness.

On the other hand, the Scarlet Tanager darts like a tongue of fire to the high tops of the tallest trees and glows there like no other bird.

Superhetrodyne Receiver Setup

By JOSEPH A. SMITH

Part 2: Receivers

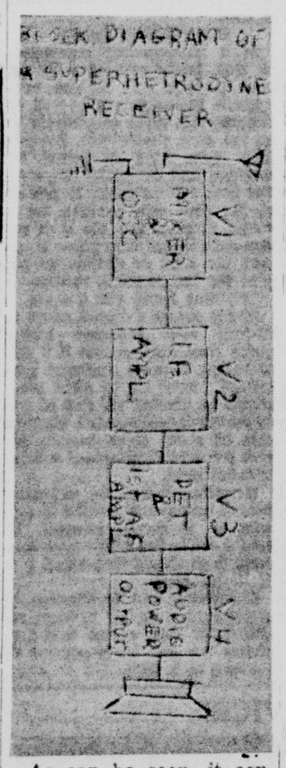
I'm sure that most of you have, at one time or other, seen either a Hallicrafter's S-38 (any model s-38 through s-38E) or the Heathkit AR series (1, 2, or 3) small amateur receivers. Now let's look at a simple block diagram of one of these little superhetrodynes.



As can be seen, it consists of a combined Mixer-Oscillator, an Intermediate Frequency Amplifier, a Detector—First Audio Amplifier, and an Audio Power Output Tube; also a Power Supply.

How does it work? Well, something like this. Let's assume that we have tuned in a station at 3,500 KCs; therefore, this signal is coming into the control grid of the MIXER section of the first receiver tube.

Let's further assume that the tuning tank circuit of the oscillator portion of this first tube is tuning 445 KCs lower than the incoming mixer signal; therefore, the oscillator is oscillating at 3,044 KCs. Therefore, we would get all four of these signals at the plate of this first MIXER-OSCILLATOR tube (V1):

(1) 3,500 KCs (Incoming signal).
(2) 3,044 KCs (Oscillator signal).
(3) 6,544 KCs (The sum of these).
(4) 445 KCs (The difference of these and the I.F. frequency).

Between the mixer-oscillator and the I.F. amplifier tube is a tunable I.F. transformer; it is adjusted so that only 455 KCs will pass through it and into the I.F. amplifier V2. Of course, within it the signal is considerably amplified, and from it the signal next passes through another 455 KC tuned I.F. transformer which helps to further improve the selectivity of the receiver.

After passing through the second I.F. transformer, the 455 KC signal passes into the grid of the DETECTOR tube V3 wherein the R.F. portion of the signal is bypassed to ground while only the audio component is passed into and through the two following audio amplifier stages and into the loudspeaker.

ALL better receivers use the full-wave transformer type of power supplies although some lesser expensive receivers still use the A.C.-D.C. type half-wave rectifier type supplies. To read code signals, a separate Beat Frequency Oscillator is usually used to beat a signal against the incoming carrier signal; the resultant audio signal is easily readable.

If you want to improve your station receiver you may:

(1) Add an external stage of R.F. amplification AHEAD of the receiver.

(2) Add a "Q-Multiplier" that greatly narrows the I.F. band width.

(3) Or, in lieu of the above Multiplier, add a "Q-5er" second receiver (ae the BC 453-B surplus receiver) which, with its lower I.F. frequency, will further improve the selectivity of the lesser expensive receiver.

Vacation Time Fun

By Mary Pence Claywell

Part 2: Farm Friends

The school year is over and Tommy's Mother has brought him to his Grandparent's farm for a visit. Now it is time for Mother to return home.

Tommy's heart felt a little full as she waved goodbye, then set her eyes on the road ahead. But the little heart tug didn't last long, for Gran was telling him. "There are cookies in the brown stone jar, Tommy, and Grandpa said to tell you that he and Jack, the hired man, are already in the field, and Nellie is tied in the barn. Listen closely, and you can hear the snort of the great iron horse right now, though they are a half mile away!"

Gran called the tractor that had taken the place of Barney and Bell long ago an "iron horse."

"Grandpa likes the iron horse fine, Tommy . . . only thing he says is, 'It never nudges him with a soft, warm nose, and it has no sense of appreciation for a friendly pat!'" And Gran told Tommy how Grandpa had stayed a long time behind the barn the morning Barney and Bell were taken away by their new owner, and how he blew his nose hard to keep her from knowing he was really wiping his eyes on the sneak!

Tommy quickly hitched Nellie to the pony cart, filled his pockets with cookies, waved to Gran, climbed in, and took off down the lane to the field.

Spot Trots Along

Spot trotted along behind, scaring up a rabbit now and then. But he never chased them far and would soon fall in behind the buggy, for he knew if he got tired, Tommy would stop and let him hop in for a ride too!

Jack was turning the fresh, moist dirt with the sharp nose of the iron horse, and Gramp, with another tractor, was cutting the land behind him, for though he was 70 he just wouldn't be out-done by these modern young "fellers," as he put it.

"HURRAH for Gramp!" said Tommy. Then he dreamed for a minute. "Maybe I'll be running the farm myself some day.

"Mom says she is still a daughter of the land, but Pop's a city man. Well, Tommy old boy, you'll have to decide some day, and if you don't hit the mark, do as Dad says, 'Take the next best, and give it all you have!'"

He munched a cookie and drove on around the field. Then he, Nellie and Spot set out for Blue Gill Lake.

A long hill led to the water's brink, but Nellie ably held back the buggy with the stout britchen strap, walking ever so carefully.

Cool Drink

At the foot of the hill, Tommy let her drink of the clear, cold water, and Spot trotted down and took a swig too, keeping his eye on a big water snake that was coming his way with its long, forked tongue out to listen. Spot wouldn't bother it as long as it stayed in its own place.

Tommy loved to loaf and dream here, just he, Nellie, Spot and God. He always felt His nearness when he looked at the tall trees that lifted their arms toward Heaven, as if in prayer. And he loved the rippling waters, and the birds that soared above the sky line. To Tommy, God's creation of Heaven and earth and all that is within was miraculous indeed.

The sun was sinking now, and he, Nellie and Spot turned their eyes toward home. Tommy began to make plans for the next station stop of Vacation Train. My, but his head was full of plans!

Joseph Capps

By Edward Bagale

Editor's Note: The following essay by Edward Bagale, Our Saviour School student, was a prize winner in the 8th grade section of the Morgan County Historical Society contest. Another prize winner will appear next Sunday.

COMES IN 1839

Joseph Capps settled in Jacksonville in 1839 and laid the foundations for the industry which has grown to be known as J. Capps and Sons Ltd., clothing manufacturers.

He was born near Winchester, Clark County, Kentucky on January 23, 1811, and was educated in Kentucky.

It is not certain in just what kind of school he was educated, but as far as we can tell he attended one of the numerous seminaries or academies which flourished in his native state at the time of his youth. Joseph's father was a rich man and owned many slaves which he treated humanely. He never sold one of them.

In his will in 1862, Joseph's father gave some of his slaves to his family and provided for the rest to be sold to good homes regardless of price. However, with Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation his slaves were freed before his death in 1864.

Learns to Card Wool

When Joseph was about 16 he left home and went to Louisville, Ky., where he learned the machinist trade and had experience in handling and carding wool.

He was married in Jacksonville to Sarah A. Higgins Reid. After their marriage they went back to his father's home.

There he was threatened with tuberculosis and went to the White Mountains for a stay for several months, leaving his wife with his parents. His eldest son, Stephen Reid, was born in his father's home in Kentucky.

Home in Waverly

Joseph located in Waverly, Ill., in 1838 in a wool-carding business. After he severed his Waverly partnership he came to Jacksonville and established a wool-carding business.

In 1859 Mr. Capps took his son, Stephen R., into business in a partnership and established the business as Joseph Capps and Sons. In 1862 a second son was admitted, William E., and in 1878 a third son, Joseph L. Joseph Capps died in 1872.

The Capps Cloth Industry will always honor the name of Joseph Capps, the founder of the growing and prosperous company of J. Capps and Sons Ltd.

ROCKETS AND SPACE —

The Astronaut Must Make The Decisions

By Walter B. Hendrickson Jr.

The job of an Astronaut in a space ship will most likely be to monitor, check, select and adjust things done by an auto pilot. The problem is what will he monitor, check, select and adjust and how much help will he need to do it?

Engineering psychologists at the Wright Air Development Center have many studies underway to find out the best kinds of dials and view screens to aid an astronaut in his job. For example, they are trying to find out exactly how clear a picture would need to be for an astronaut to find a preselected landing place on the moon.

In these tests subjects are shown imitation radar screens filled with various forms. Each screen shows the same group of forms, but they vary in distance from small, very sharp images to large, hazy ones. The subjects are given drawings of the forms and the time it takes them to find them on each screen is noted.

From testing many subjects the engineering psychologists hope to get some idea of the best kind of display for this type of task.

Man's higher mental functions are being studied so that his judgment and decision-making capabilities can be used best. It is important what information man needs in a system to make complex decisions quickly and accurately.

Right now research is being conduted into the effects of fear and anxiety on decision-making. The effects of unnecessary information on man's judgments are also being studied.

An audio (sound) warning system is now being flight tested. This system would be useful in airplanes and even more useful in a space ship. In an emergency, a warning would sound in the pilot's head phones, or through a speaker in a space ship cabin (so the astronaut would have to wear phones all the time). The warning would be followed by a message telling what the emergecy was and how to deal with it.

The developers of this system have designed it so that three different warning sounds can be made to denote the importance of the emergency. If more than one emergency occurred at a time the most important one would take priority over the lesser one.

WADC's Aeronautical Accessories Laboratory is working on the hardware for this system, while the Aero Medical Laboratory is trying to find the warning sounds and voice reproduction to make this system as effective as possible.

In Hollywood

AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Will it be another year with Emmy for Fred Astaire? That possibility appeared Monday with the nominations for the 1959-60 TV Academy Awards.

Last year, "An Evening With Fred Astaire" danced off with nine gold statuettes in various divisions. He can't repeat that record because the Emmy categories have been pared.

But Fred's again in the running for best musical-variety performance, competing with Harry Belafonte and Dinah Shore.

"Another Evening With Fred Astaire" also drew a nomination as best variety program. It will be in a race with the Dinah Shore Show, Fabulous Fifties, Garry Moore Show and Tonight with Belafonte. In reducing the number of categories, the Academy has created the somewhat illogical competition of single specials against weekly shows.

Another unusual race is in the best series actor division. It i. a three-away affair between Westerner Richard Boone (Have Gun, Will Travel), sleuth Raymond Burr (Perry Mason) and crime-buster Robert Stack (The Untouchables).

The best series actress contest demonstrates TV's reliance on standard movie names. The competitors: Donna Reed, Jane Wyatt (Father Knows Best) and Loretta Young.

The awards will be handed out on an NBC special June 20. Other major nominations follow:

Outstanding achievement in humor:

Art Carney S8; Danny Thomas Show; Father Knows Best; Jack Benny Show; Red Skelton Show.

Oversized Glove Easy To Handle Says Courtney

NEW YORK (AP)— "It's easy to handle," Clint Courtney said Friday after using Baltimore's new balloon glove to catch knuckleballer Hoyt Wilhelm in the Orioles' 3-2 victory over New York at Yankee Stadium.

"I don't know how many pitches would have jumped past me with a regular glove," Courtney added. "This was the first time I ever caught him. Boy, is he rough to catch. I don't see how anybody ever hits him."

Manager Paul Richards, who thought the glove "worked fine" in its first game trial, suggested the giant-sized glove after Wilhelm was charged with four wild pitches and his catches with 11 passed balls in 28 2-3 previous innings this season.

Two of the Baltimore catchers, Gus Triandos and Joe Ginsberg, went into the record books by allowing three passed balls in one inning May 4 and May 10 while trying to handle Wilhelm.

Courtney went through the game Friday without a passed ball and Wilhelm without a wild pitch. Richards, for one, thought the glove made the difference.

Pirates Acquire Vinegar Bend From Cardinals

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates announced Friday night they have acquired pitcher Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell and utility infielder-outfielder Dick Gray from the St. Louis Cardinals in exchange for a pitcher to be named later and a minor leaguer.

The Pirates gave the Cards Julian Javier, a second baseman with the Pirates' Columbus team in the International League.

The Pirates said Gray will go to Columbus, which purchased his contract as part of the deal. Javier will report to the Cards immediately. Mizell will report to the Pirates immediately.

Minor Change For Start Of 500 Classic

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A minor change was made Friday in Monday's lineup for the 44th 500-mile auto race, but Eddie Sachs, Jim Rathmann and Rodger Ward still will lead the hazardous start in the chase for a third of a million dollars.

Dempsey Wilson of Hawthorne, Calif., who took over the Bryant Special after Jimmy Daywalt resigned as driver, was moved to last (33rd) place in the starting lineup as a safety precaution. Chief Steward Harlan Fengler explained Wilson is unfamiliar with the car.

Daywalt, from Indianapolis, earned 26th starting position in time trials but quit in dissatisfaction with the car after tuneup runs Wednesday. The former holder of the race 250-mile record said mechanics had readjusted the car to the point where he could not get within five miles an hour of his 143.215 qualifying speed.

The 500 draws a crowd upward of 200,000 without stimulation of illegal betting, but the Indianapolis News published its annual odds quotations Friday. It listed defending champion Ward, Indianapolis, and former AAA national champion Chuck Stevenson, Garden Grove, Calif., as team entry favorites at 5-1.

Ward and Stevenson will drive for Robert C. Wilke of Milwaukee in a pair of Watson racers labeled Leader Card Specials.

Jim Rathmann of Miami, who has been runner-up three times in 10 Memorial Day races, was listed as 6-1 in another new Watson.

BUSY DAY FOR CHAMP

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (AP)—Ingemar Johansson put in a busy day Friday in preparation for defense of his world heavyweight boxing title against Floyd Patterson June 20.

The Swedish fighter began with 4½ miles of roadwork. Then he went horseback riding.

In the afternoon he boxed 6 rounds against three sparring partners. One of his sparmates was Al Avellez, a newcomer from Puerto Rico. Ingo wound up the workout with eight rounds on the bags and rope skipping.

Sportsmen's Club Adopts System For Concession Stand

MEREDOSIA — Thursday night the Meredosia Sportsmen's Club's regular meeting in the clubhouse was attended by 23 members. All the officers were present.

It was reported that the first softball games of the season were played Tuesday night on the diamond north of the high school.

Because help in the concession stand was short that night the club will use the system found workable last year.

From the roll of members, the secretary will send cards to those whose turn it is to work in the stand, notifying five men for each week. To help the week of May 30 are Lozelle VanDeventer, Bob Pool, John Nortrup, Lloyd Lathrop, Richard Owens; the week of June 6—Lew Cummings, Harold Schroeder, Harry Pirtle, Norman Schweer and Alvin Unland.

The members voted to grant the request of the executive district Boy Scout board for use of the clubhouse for a meeting and fish fry the last Monday of August.

The Little League has asked permission to use the ball diamond for its games on Friday nights.

On the refreshment committee for the June 9 meeting are James King, Chel Young and Robert Workman.

Assemble-your-own sandwiches, potato chips, coffee and pop were served by Harry Weber, John Lovekamp and Clifford Fricke.

For the past two years she has been the girl's physical education instructor in Unit II.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wickert of Plymouth. He graduated from the Plymouth high school and served two years in the army. He has a B. S. in Vocational Education from the University of Illinois and has taught in Meredosia for two years.

Mr. and Mrs. Wickert will return to the Unit II schools in September.

College Briefs

DEKALB, Ill. (AP) — Hayes Jones of Eastern Michigan set two records in the trials of the Interstate Intercollegiate Athletic Conference track meet Friday.

Jones did the 120-yard high hurdles in :14.2 and the 220-yard lows in :22.8. In each race, he broke his own records set in 1957.

Central Michigan had 13 qualifiers and was favored to capture the team title in Saturday's finals.

Western Illinois and Illinois Normal qualified eight each and Northern Illinois and Southern Illinois had eight each. Eastern Michigan had seven qualifiers with Jones making the grade in three events and Eastern Illinois qualified six.

Eastern Michigan has won the last three titles and has been conference champion eight times in the last 10 years.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)— Northwestern kept the door open in its bid for the Big Ten baseball title by downing Indiana 10-6.

All 10 Wildcat runs were unearned as Indiana committed five errors. Don Weaver scored an inside-the-park homer with two Northwestern mates on in the fourth when the ball passed the Hoosier centerfielder. Three-baggers followed by Northwestern's Jim Nelson and Dennis Lundgren.

The Wildcats can take the conference title with a pair of victories over Ohio State in Columbus Saturday if Minnesota loses its twin bill at Iowa.

Medal honors went to Cliff Zill of Eastern Michigan who had a 141 over the par-up Kishwaukee Course. Emil Esposito of Western Illinois was second with 144 for 36 holes.

Challenger Wins On Unanimous Decision

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Benny (Kid) Paret of Cuba captured the world welterweight championship Friday night with a unanimous 15-round decision over Don Jordan of Los Angeles.

The 20-year-old one-time sugar cane cutter from Santa Clara, Cuba, hacked and chopped out the victory over the 25-year-old Jordan, who was making his third defense of the crown he won Dec. 5, 1958, from Virgil Akins.

Paret weighed 146½ and Jordan 144½.

There were no knockdowns in the nationally televised bout but it was a tough, bruising battle for the full 15 rounds.

Referee Charlie Randolph, imported from Los Angeles to handle the match, scored it under the 5-point per round system 72 for Paret and 65 for Jordan.

The Associated Press had it 72-70 for the Cuban slasher.

Jordan, who went into the fight a 5-8 underdog, started out strong and closed at least even with his younger foe.

But the champion seemed to lose speed and power after the first five rounds and didn't regain a semblance of it until too late.

Knocked out in four rounds last December by Argentina's Federico Thompson and out-pointed just 12 days ago by Candy McFarland in Baltimore, both nontitle bouts, Jordan was hardly the puncher-boxer he was 16 months ago.

Jordan came up with a sliced cut over his left eye in the third round, and was bleeding slightly at the nose at the finish.

Jordan was guaranteed $85,000 for the title defense. He and Paret have a private, signed agreement calling for a rematch within 90 days.

Mel Roach, playing left field for Milwaukee, saved a run when he made a running stop of Bobby Del-Greco's two base hit in Philadelphia's opening game.

Jacoby On Bridge

TRUMP SHORTAGE NO DISASTER

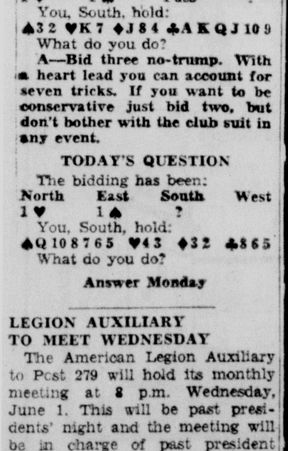
BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

All bridge books stress the great value of finding a four-four fit in trumps. In order to find this fit someone has to start bidding four card suits first and his partner has got to have four to support one of them.



In a New York duplicate all South players bid at least one four card suit and wound up at various two-level contracts. No matter what the suit, they still found only three trumps in dummy to support them.

Nancy Allen landed at two hearts and managed to make nine tricks for a top score. Her play is a fine example of how to handle this type of trump holding.

West opened the king of diamonds and continued the suit. Nancy ruffed the second diamond and now found herself with only three trumps in each hand. Obviously, she could not pull trumps so she went after as many tricks as she could get by ruffing. A spade to the queen allowed her to ruff a third diamond; and a club to the king let her ruff the last one.

Now she was down to one trump in her own hand, but it did not matter too much. She was able to cash the ace of clubs and ace and king of spades for eight tricks.

Then she led her fourth spade and discarded dummy's last club. Now the opponents had no way to shut out dummy's ten of trumps.

With The Girl Scouts

Four Girl Scout troops will be participating in the dedication of the picnic area at Lake Jacksonville on Monday. Ten girls of Troop No. 27, Mrs. Ralph Sullivan, leader, will participate in the flag ceremony at 2 p.m. Members of Senior Troop No. 1, Mrs. R. Y. Rowe, Jr., leader, will set up units at the Girl Scout cabin Monday morning and build primitive equipment, using lashing techniques. These girls will demonstrate cooking during the afternoon as will the girls of Troop No. 27.

Intermediate Troop No. 16, Mrs. Charles Nicholson, leader, will demonstrate basket weaving during the afternoon at the Girl Scout cabin and members of Troop No. 5 of Franklin, Mrs. Byron Smith, leader, will present a number of folk dances.

Open House will be observed all afternoon at the Girl Scout cabin and the public is cordially invited to visit the grounds and watch the various demonstrations.

Carrollton Camp

Brownie and Intermediate Day Camp will be held this week in Carrollton at the Robin Hood Country Club. Eighty-five girls have registered to attend for the three-day session, June 1, 2, and 3. Mrs. Bud Roth and Mrs. Jake Shelton are co-directors of the camp and there will be a full session of crafts, nature activities and cooking each day. The American Indian is the theme for the 1960 camping season in all the Girl Scout camps in the Council. Indian tribe names will be used for names of the individual units and Indian chief names will be used for unit leaders. Handcrafts will include the making of Indian jackets, Indian drums, clay pottery and blueprinting.

Members of the Finance Committee will meet at 3 p.m. Tuesday, May 31, at the Scout office to set up a budget for the coming year.

Friday, June 3, is "Move-out Day" for Camp Shagbark. On that day all the camping equipment, unit boxes and other supplies for crafts and cooking will be moved to Camp Shagbark for the four-week camping program which begins June 6. Members of the camp committee will meet on that day to engineer the move.

Register for Camp

Registrations for the last week of camp at Camp Shagbark will be accepted until June 15. This is a change from previous announcements because of the small registration of Intermediates for that week. Intermediate troops are urged to consider plans for camping together that week. Over 515 Girl Scouts are now enrolled for camp with a high percentage of that number enrolled the first three weeks. The last week of camp begins June 27 and ends July 1. The weather should be ideal by that time so talk it over in your troop and plan to climax your summer with a week at Shagbark camping together.

Watch for the June issues of the Reader's Digest and the Ladies Home Journal coming out right away. Each magazine carries an interesting story of Girl Scouts—"The Girls' Big Swap" in the Reader's Digest and "She's a Good Scout" in the Ladies Home Journal. The first article is a moving story of Roundup and the second, with a two-page picture display, tells of a Girl Scout's experience at summer camp. Both of them are fascinating reading. Don't forget to pick up a copy.

This week we will begin telling about the troops in South Jacksonville school. Since there are three Intermediate and three Brownie troops, all of them fairly large, the descriptions of the troops will be given in two or three columns, to cut down on the length of the column.

Troop 75

Intermediate Troop No. 75 is the oldest troop of the group. The girls were registered as Brownies when they were in the third grade and this year they are completing the sixth grade as older Intermediates. They have been in Girl Scouting for four years and they have had the same leader all four years—Mrs. C. A. Dawson, an outstanding and enthusiastic worker for Girl Scouting. Part of the time Mrs. Dawson has had an assistant leader; one year Mrs. Winston Douglas helped her and part of one year Mrs. John Ennis was assistant leader, but the rest of the time Mrs. Dawson has carried on with the help of just a troop committee.

Troop No. 75 has a record of not missing one day of camp in the three years they attended, either at Brownie Day Camp or Intermediate Overnight camp.

As a troop they spent this year working on dramatics for first class rank. They furnished tray favors for Passavant Hospital from November through April for their sustained service this year and took part in service crafts every year at least once or twice during the year.

When the girls were beginning Intermediates in the 5th grade, they took into their troop the members of Troop No. 66.

One of the nice things that happened to this troop last year was the enrollment of two blind girls in the troop. It was a mutually beneficial experience and both girls passed second class rank during their year with the troop.

All girls in the troop have attained second class rank now and 3 badges is the minimum achievement for any girl. Many of the girls have achieved much more; two of the girls are close to first class rank.

As these girls leave elementary school and enter Junior High School, many of them will continue their Scouting experience; they have had good training under excellent leadership which will stand them in good stead in all areas of life.

Another precedent set by this troop was the fact that at no time in their existence did they call on their parents to furnish refreshments or other financial help. The girls earned their own money and stayed within their budget at all times.

It is with a note of sadness that we conclude the history of this troop with the statement that the fine leader of this extraordinary troop is leaving to make her home in Springfield and Illinois Prairie Council will know a great loss just as the Springfield Council will gain by her arrival in that area.

Mrs. Dawson also expressed her appreciation to the troop mothers and others who have given assistance during the years. A successful Girl Scout troop is mutually beneficial to the girls and their parents.

Courts of Awards

Parents of every Girl Scout in Troop No. 9 of Washington school were present Wednesday evening at a potluck supper and Court of Awards held at First Presbyterian church. A menu featuring fried chicken was served.

A fly-up ceremony was held and Julie Baker was received into troop membership. All girls previously registered in the troop received their second class rank and each member of the troop received the interior decorating badge. Swimmer badges were awarded to Janice Bradish and Delores Sooy; Karen McCurdy earned the horsewoman's badge, a rather uncommon one in Girl Scouting.

Mrs. Philip Bradish is troop leader. She was assisted in plans for the supper and Court of Awards by Mrs. Wyman Sooy, Mrs. Elvin Hisle and Mrs. Ellsworth Marshall, assistant leaders of the troop.

Sixty-eight persons attended a potluck supper given by the girls of Troop No. 41 of South Jacksonville school on Friday, May 20, at the South Jacksonville village hall. The troop had planned an overnight and potluck on two previous occasions and had been rained out, so this was scheduled for inside.

Families were invited for the potluck at 6 p.m. and the girls of the troop put on a program for the parents, led by Mrs. Vincent Penza, song leader. Badges were awarded after the program.

Sixteen girls stayed overnight at the hall and for breakfast Saturday morning. Those who stayed overnight were Mrs. Willard Fulkerson, new leader of the troop, and Mrs. H. B. Stansfield. Others assisting were Mrs. R. E. Patterson, Mrs. William Smith, who is retiring as leader after two years with the troop, and Mrs. Glen Neff.

'We Read Dead Men's Books, Sing Dead Men's Songs'

Editor's Note — The following column, written in 1957, won wide praise from readers who felt it caught well the spirit of Memorial Day. It is repeated by request.

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—America tomorrow will wear a sprig of rosemary over its heart for remembrance.

A miracle of resurrection takes place in millions of households as the dead come home again, and walk the earth once more in gladness.

Their presence is invisible to the eye, inescapable to the spirit. For this haunting day of return they are as live as we.

The loneliest man in the land is the man who has no one to remember on Memorial Day. He is indeed a soul lost, a stranger on the earth, a pilgrim going from nothing to nowhere.

For it is the memory of the dead that in great measure keeps us human, that sets us apart from stone and star, moss and mole, and all other feeling and unfeeling prisoners of the great jailor — time.

"What is Memorial Day?" asks the child. "Will I get a present—like on Christmas or my birthday?"

It is a hard question to answer. How can we, who are ourselves childishly bewildered by the mystery of both life and death, explain the puzzle of that living-loving death we call memory?

Perhaps the best answer you can give a child is to say, "Memorial Day is the day when everyone anyone ever knew is alive, and nobody is dead."

The dead have far more power over our lives than we ordinarily realize. We read dead men's books, sing dead men's songs, obey dead men's laws. Dead men taught us to sow the earth and reap the harvest. Dead men won us our present perilous safety (we especially honor them this day), and to dead men we owe our finest visions of heaven.

Every step upward we take in life has been made possible by the sacrificial steps taken by our guardian dead.

There are more tombs than there are living men to journey to them. And so it is one must pick and choose which dead to revisit on Memorial Day, which to spend a quiet moment with, or talk to for an hour.

Mostly, of course, we spend the time with those dearest to us through personal grief — the lost relative, the absent friend, the cherished neighbor who moved away forever.

But on Memorial Day I also like to pick up old books and bring to life again old comrades of my spirit I never knew in the flesh—men like John Keats, Thomas Hardy, and Tom Wolfe; women like Sara Teasdale, Emily Dickinson and Mother Eve.

It is a corruption of Memorial Day to make of it a trek into sadness and self-pity. It should ideally be a shared voyage of rediscovery. For how often, when we summon up the memory of our dear dead, are we surprised to find that through some mystic alchemy we now understand them better and appreciate them more than when they walked daily among us!

Perhaps, on Memorial Day, the dead may even feel the same way toward us, the living. It well may be. Surely, if life has a perspective, death does, too.

Nation's War Dead, Missing Identified By Silent Service

By C. YATES McDANIEL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Tens of thousands of military dead honored this Memorial Day would be forever nameless or missing were it not for the unending search for Americans lost on far-flung battlegrounds of the world.

More than 15 years after the last World War II combat in North Africa, two men recently were lost for a week in the Libyan Desert. They were Army specialists seeking the remains of four crewmen of an American bomber that crash landed in 1943. The two specialists, who vanished in a blinding sandstorm, were finally rescued by a helicopter.

On the other side of the world, many years after the war had passed over New Guinea, another Army team made its way to a remote jungle valley to match names with remains of another plane crew.

Of such deeds of danger and detection is compiled the story of the Graves Registration Services that have given rightful names to 97 per cent of the 281,982 recovered remains of the 360,819 Americans who died in overseas combat areas during the second World War.

The World War II identification record bettered that of the 1917-1918 conflict by one half of one per cent. This was an achievement considering the radically different nature of the two wars. One was mostly fought in a relatively small area of civilized land, the latter over oceans, massive mountains and steaming jungles.

Despite the near disaster and bitter retreats of its early phases, the Korean war produced the smallest proportion of unknown dead, 2.9 per cent. But it also left a major task for graves registration teams whenever in the future North Korea is opened for a dedicated search for the unrecovered remains of 8,184 American dead.

Though nations from the times of ancient Greece honored their warrior dead with state funerals, it was not until the American Civil War that any government formally assumed the obligation to identify and bury in registered graves all who lost their lives in a war.

American battle deaths in the 1846-48 war with Mexico totaled 1,733 but only one-tenth were ever identified. Some 750 of these dead were given temporary burial on the road between the Gulf Coast and Mexico City. When their bones were exhumed for permanent interment at the foot of a monument in the Mexican capital, the official U.S. Army record stated that "not a single remains could be identified."

The Union established a national cemetery system before the end of the Civil War, but there was no formal requirement to meet the desires of next of kin as to where the dead would be buried.

In the Civil War, 42 per cent of the Union dead were buried as "unknowns." This war saw the first, amateurish attempts to examine teeth and dentistry as a means of identification.

The Spanish-American War recorded a further drop in the number of unknowns. Of the 385 battle deaths and 2,061 fatalities from other causes, only 13.6 per cent were unidentified.

This second of the nation's foreign wars also established the policy of burying military dead at government expense in the place of the family's choosing.

Army experience in the Philippine insurrection produced major aids to identification. Quartermaster Corps officers succeeded by 1913 in requiring graves registered and marked as soon as militarily possible after an action, and the preservation of all significant information in a sealed bottle to be buried with the casualty.

An Army chaplain in the Philippines recommended the greatest boon to identification, the metal disc. Wearing of the tag became mandatory shortly after the United States entered World War I.

The chaplain also insisted upon assigning to a central agency the task of receiving, correlating and preserving records of death. The Quartermaster Corps became this agency for the army.

The record of American deaths in the battle for Bataan was preserved by the devotion of a chaplain. The original register of the fallen was hidden in the massive walls of Corregidor fortress. At war's end, they had disappeared. But a chaplain made a duplicate register and kept it hidden on his person throughout more than three years in a prison camp.

There will never be marked graves for those who fell in the last hours of fighting on Corregidor. The Japanese victors refused Gen. Jonathan Wainwright's request to bury American and Filipino dead on "The Rock." Official history records that "with the thousands of Japanese corpses littering the field, these remains were heaped in high funeral pyres and cremated."

There is no statute of limitations on the search for names or remains of American dead. Clues as slender as a mother's hope are followed to the ends of the earth.

After the war in China, rumors filtered through that a reputedly savage tribe of Lolo aborigines in the western mountains was holding American soldiers as slaves. Army investigators penetrated the remote area and made friends with the Lolos. They found no slaves but did pick up clues that led to the recovery and identification of the bodies of several victims of an American plane crash.

Near the end of the war in Europe, AP photographer William C. Allen made a picture of a roomful of Americans in a newly liberated prison camp. An American mother imagined she recognized her son in the picture, even though the boy was listed killed in action. The Army spent two years tracking down and identifying all men in the photograph, including the imagined son. He was somebody else.

The same Corvair that tallied a thumping 27.03 miles per gallon* in the Mobilgas Economy Run . . . went right on to climb Pikes Peak earlier in the spring than any car has ever tried!

We wanted to show you what the fabulous traction of Corvair's rear-engine design and the sure-footedness of four-wheel independent suspension really mean. So the identical Economy Run car went right on to 14,110-foot Pikes Peak—and right up to the top of that savage mountain, on April 15, still deep in winter's snow and ice. No other car—even specially equipped—had ever been able to conquer that nightmare alpine road so early in the spring. But Corvair (with United States Auto Club officials aboard to certify that not one nut or bolt was changed) purred right to the summit without chains or even snow tires! That just underscores the fact that Corvair is totally unique. But you'll find that out the first five minutes you're at the wheel!

AF Medic's Wife Tells Of Plane Being Forced Down By Russ MIGs

Editor's Note — Barbara McCash, 24, of Atlanta, Ga., was aboard a U.S. Air Force plane flying from Copenhagen to Hamburg last Friday. It strayed over East Germany, and Soviet fighter planes forced it down. Back in West Germany today, Mrs. McCash, wife of an Air Force doctor, told her story to The Associated Press.

By BARBARA MCCASH

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP)—I don't think I ever got really panicky—things happened so fast.

We felt a bump and at first I thought something was wrong with the plane. Then I could see the planes—I didn't recognize the emblem. I could see the star but I don't remember what color they were.

I asked Mack (her husband, Capt. Paul McCash) what they were and he said he didn't know for sure. He told me to strap myself in my seat. I was looking out of the window and these planes were zooming all around us. Then we heard the firing from the planes.

One of the pilots stuck his head out of the cockpit and said: "We're going to land."

I didn't know where they could find a place to land because I could see houses and trees but they found a green field. It was a little bit hilly but they made a good landing. We bounced about two or three times and came to a very quick stop. Mack had put both arms around me and I was about to squeeze his leg off bracing myself.

Everybody said "Get out of the plane as fast as possible." They didn't have time to put a ladder down. I'm usually a rather slow-moving person but I practically flew out of that plane. We ran over to the road. There was another field on the other side with much taller grass and we could have hidden there if the MIGs had tried to fire on us. We stood at the road and everybody said "Wait, somebody is sure to come."

After about five minutes, East German police came, some on a truck and some on motorcycles. They informed us we were in East Germany and requested that we put our billfolds on the ground with our identification cards out. While they were going around searching the men I told Mack I would slap their faces if they did this to me. Mack said "You won't either. Just stay there and wait." Mack then thanked them for not searching me.

They asked for the pilot and and took Lundy (Capt. James Lundy) away. A few minutes later they took us in a truck to Greves-muehlen. Boy, was that a bumpy ride. They had told us not to speak to each other. There were one uniformed Russian guard and two men in civilian clothes, Germans.

I think I was more scared during this 25-minute truck ride than during any other time because we had a long time to think about what was going to happen to us.

Then we were taken into the Soviet headquarters. There were not many Russians to receive us. The tension was very evident. One fellow was stomping his feet. One time a window slammed and we all just about went through the ceiling.

After a few hours they brought us a sort of teatime snack—coffee, fish with a jelly coating, white bread, meat loaf, hard-boiled eggs and a ham salad.

We didn't eat very much. Our stomachs were tied in knots.

Most of the time our food was brought in from a restaurant around the corner. One waiter was anxious to please us. He would run across the room to light our cigarettes. It was getting almost to be a game to see which cigarette would be lit first.

In the afternoon they questioned my husband. I didn't know where they had taken him and I was worried when he didn't come back right away and the other men did.

A German school teacher came in to interpret for us. He spoke English and was very friendly.

There was more questioning of the pilot and we just wore out the floor pacing. They allowed us to go out in the back yard and the fellows asked for a ball to play volleyball.

The next few days we spent walking in the yard and the men played volleyball, some times with the Russians. Our side won most of the time. The fellows also played blackjack.

The Russians were always very friendly and tried very hard to be helpful. I got the impression that they were very concerned that we could say we were treated well. They brought us German and Russian brandy and cigarettes. They always pointed out which was made in Germany and which in Russia.

Mack had given up smoking eight months ago but now he's back on a pack and a half a day.

The bond issue for the proposed swimming pool in the city, for fluorination of the city water supply and the redistricting of the City of White Hall will be voted on at this election or at some other election during the summer. THE STORY: Ry Buckner is back in Signal after five years in prison. He speculates on how much responsibility for his unjust sentence can be laid at Duke Jordan's feet. He can't find Duke, who is on the run after a shooting with Lark Rigby.

Ry Buckner found Jake Hollis returned to the livery stable. He told Jake, "I want to rent a horse and gear. For how long, I don't know."

Jake had been a working cowhand till rheumatism had got hold of him. "Take your pick," he said. "You'll find gear around. You got no hooks in your pants."

Buckner nodded. "Sure, Jake. Got a six-shooter I could have the loan of?"

Jake indicated the packing case that was his bureau. "Half a dozen in there. Belts, holsters, shells, too. Some cowhand comes in, wants a buggy to go sparkin' some piece of calico. Leaves his gun in place of rent, says he'll square up come pay day. Next I hear, he's married the calico, moved to Nevady, and they've got four kids. The fools must figger I'm in the gun-collectin' business."

Buckner swept away the ragged burlap curtaining the box. He picked out a belt, a holster, enough shells to fill the belt, and a bone-handled 45. He strapped on the belt.

Jake regarded him dourly. "If I didn't loan you that iron, you'd get one somewheres else anyway. For the record, though, I'm sayin' here and now that I like Duke Jordan. He has his faults, but I like him."

"Got it all figured out I'm going after his scalp, eh?"

"One of two things fetched you back, Ry. If you'd asked the loan of a shovel, I'd figgered you was diggin' up a certain carpetbag. But you crave a gun, which means it's a man you're huntin'."

"Jake, it was hinted at my trial that I'd get off a lot easier if I'd tell where I'd hidden the rest of Gulley's money. I couldn't make the deal, because I didn't steal that money. But you still could be guessing wrong. I might be needing this gun against Hatchet—or Virg McQueen."

He rode into the street and headed west. At the edge of Signal, he looked back and could see the cemetery, with the flatbed wagon up there, and the men of Hatchet grouped with heads bowed. Soon now they would be riding.

* * *

This was the road to Boxed J, the closest of the ranches to town, and he quit the road and cut overland toward the Garnets, making the high lift of Table Mountain his beacon. And so he faced the hills as Duke must have faced them last night, and the search was both narrowed and made great, for the hills might take weeks of combing. Never mind. There would be sign somewhere, sign lost in the traveled valley but plainly read in the emptier reaches, a curl of campfire smoke, a fresh hoofprint of a shod horse where only game might be expected to roam, a rider skylined on a ridge in some unwary moment. No matter how careful Duke might be, sooner or later there would be sign.

He wondered if he had taken Duke's trail too poorly prepared. But he'd make out. The package of food in the saddlebag would last him a while, and he could get meals at the scattered ranches. And he could sleep where Duke would likely sleep, in some old shack or mine shaft, or in the cave.

He almost jerked the horse to a halt. Why hadn't it struck him before? The cave, of course! That hole in the hills he and Duke had found when they were 10 and used as their secret place till they had put boyhood behind them. The cave of many sunny afternoons where sometimes they had played pirate, planning the sack of Panama, and sometimes smugglers, and often Indians, watching for unwary wagon trains. There they had once attempted the blood-brother ritual of Indians, having heard of such, and had clumsily cut their arms and tried making the blood mingle. They had had to hurry to old Doc Fargo in town, who had kept a straight face while predicting blood poisoning and amputation, scaring the liver out of them.

Duke might have remembered the cave.

Then, topping still another ridge, he sighted a rider ahead.

His next glimpse, 20 minutes later, showed that he'd shortened the distance between them; and he got a better look. A girl, wearing one of those divided skirts. He thought instantly of Dorcas last night and grew almost certain it was Dorcas ahead. Dorcas, who had been both his girl and Duke's, now trying to help Duke in his trouble?

* * *

He topped one more ridge and saw the Brewster house, a two-story ruin, in the hollow below him. Before the house the girl was dismounting.

She let her reins fall, and with her horse ground-anchored, she began pacing up and down, switching at her skirt with her quirt. She looked this way and that. Finally she looked toward the ridge where he lay; and with her face turned fully toward him, he had the shock of disappointment. It was Pru, not Dorcas, he had been following.

He moved back to his horse, mounted, and came boldly over the ridge and rode down the slant into the yard. She watched his coming, and when he was close enough, he touched the brim of his hat and said, "Hello, Pru."
